

Splashdown on the Button

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Apollo 9's precision pilots rode a sheath of flame to a safe pinpoint splashdown today in a triumphant climax to 10 days in orbit that put Americans within four months of walking on the moon.

With home viewers watching on live television, James A. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart dropped softly at 12:01 p.m. EST into calm tradewind swells of the Atlantic Ocean.

Looking Good
"We're looking real good," reported McDivitt, the laconic commander of the spectacular mission.

Rescue helicopters from the USS Guadalcanal three miles away raced to the scene. The scorched spacecraft landed about 180 miles east of the coral isles of the Bahamas. "The burn looks good," McDivitt reported as Apollo 9 swept over Hawaii on its 151st and last orbit. And he said it "felt good."

The USS Guadalcanal stood by to retrieve the astronauts in calm tradewind seas 180 miles east of the coral isles of the Bahamas. Rescue helicopters were airborne.

After discarding their engine section, the astronauts rolled their ship over and slashed upside down into the upper fringes of earth's blanket of air some 76 miles above Dallas.

A 2,700-degree layer of flaming gases coated the cone-shaped ship. Its quick deceleration in the thickening atmosphere built gravity forces up to 3½ times that felt on earth.

They were bringing back autographed dollar bills validating four spaceflight records, and knowledge their masterful tests of the first manned moon landing spacecraft cleared the way for a probable moon orbiting rehearsal in May and a lunar landing in July.

Ambitious Plan
When they left Cape Kennedy March 3 on the last U.S. earth orbital flight planned for two years, the astronauts faced the most ambitious flight plan yet devised. They accomplished virtually everything they set out to do, and then some.

McDivitt, 39, Scott, 36, and Schweickart, 33, even pioneered a promising new photographic experiment that may help man solve some of his immediate needs by showing him how to reap more food and material from his own planet.

Their only significant problems have been with recovery area weather and a mysterious attack of nausea that twice hit Schweickart and cut short a space stroll on the front porch of the Apollo 9 moon landing spacecraft dubbed "Spider."

Flight Director Eugene Kranz said that not only did the first manned lunar lander work magnificently, but the repeated use of it day after day showed "you can launch it, store it and expect it to be good when the crew inhabits it."

The man directing the American moonflight program until late last year it was said Wednesday he believed the next step after Apollo 9 was an orbital mission to the moon in lunar orbit before trying a landing. Now, Phillips said, that kind of mission looks like a necessary step.

Phillips said the two top men in the space agency, George Mueller, manned spaceflight associate administrator, and Thomas O. Paine, an agency administrator, have yet to decide whether to skip the lunar mission, Phillips said first the data from Apollo 9 must be studied and astronauts James A. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L. "Rusty" Schweickart must undergo an intensive 12-day debriefing.

"The debriefing is especially important in this mission because of the extensive maneuvers they did," Phillips said. "It'll take that time (two weeks) to make sure that yes, Apollo 9 really did everything it looked in real time like it did."

A Bundle of Bonuses For the Astronauts

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Apollo 9 has not only put America squarely on course toward a July lunar landing, but chalked up a bundle of bonuses that will make flights to the moon and beyond easier and safer.

With the exception of testing some communications techniques that may be used in future trips to the moon, "all mission objectives have been accomplished," said flight director Eugene F. Kranz.

Fuel-Saving

In addition, the astronauts discovered a fuel-saving way to sight navigation landmarks, performed an unscheduled satellite-tracking experiment that could be useful in rescuing men aboard a disabled space ship, and got new engineering data for planning future missions.

"Across the board, we've had a good mission," Kranz told a news conference as Apollo 9 circled the globe on its final orbits before today's re-entry with its crew of three.

Their risky 10-day journey flight-qualified the last piece of hardware needed to land Americans on the moon, the spidery lunar module (LEM) that will shuttle spacemen from a command ship to the moon's surface.

Enough questions remain—particularly about navigating around the moon—that the space agency is expected to fly one more mission before attempting a lunar landing. The next flight, scheduled to blast off May 17, will call for three Apollo 10 astronauts to circle the moon for 63 hours, sources said.

Mid-July
On that schedule, the landing mission would come in mid-July.

Overshadowed by Apollo 9's feat of qualifying the LEM were many less dramatic but important accomplishments, including:

— Proving the space suit with oxygen-filled backpack to be worn by astronauts walking on the moon is safe and comfortable. Russell L. Schweickart tested the entire lunar landing outfit during his 38-minute space walk outside the LEM.

— Operating for the first time the type of television camera to be used on a lunar landing. TV cameras carried on previous Apollo flights were not designed to withstand high temperatures in sunlight outside a moonship.

— Blazing a trail for a new unmanned satellite program aimed at locating unseen sources of minerals and food supplies on earth. Unmanned satellites carrying cameras similar to Apollo 9's are to be orbiting beginning in 1971. Film returned by Apollo 9 will show whether development plans need to be altered.

— Tracking an old unmanned satellite named Pegasus and the discarded LEM, proving a disabled craft can under certain conditions be seen hundreds of miles away. This information will be useful if one space ship has to rescue another.

The fuel-saving method of tracking navigation landmarks involved rolling the spacecraft slowly as the astronauts passed over a target, rather than using jerky motor firings.

The astronauts also tested backup navigation techniques, including sightings on planets, and rehearsed methods of rolling their space ship to distribute outside sun heat more evenly as will be done en route to the moon.

Uptown Garage Could Cost Merchants Money

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON
Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan shed some light on a pair of rumors about the proposed Uptown Parking Garage today, one about its cost to the city; the other about potential development in the surrounding area.

Garraghan disclosed that the city "will probably have to put some money into the parking structure." How much and in what manner has yet to be settled.

The mayor explained that the state's share of the Uptown Urban Renewal project is some $760,000 and that this money has been earmarked for the proposed parking garage on the site of the old Montgomery Ward building on North Front Street.

Time Vital Factor
Time is the vital factor, here, in that the plan for the garage is part of the overall plan for Uptown urban renewal drawn up some five years ago. In that period, building costs have risen considerably but the state allocation has not. In short, the city will have to make up the difference between what the state has allotted for the parking structure and what it will actually cost. Bids are expected to go out this year.

Garraghan says he has no hope of getting the Common Council to approve a bond issue to cover the additional cost. He will instead, try to sell the idea of a parking authority to the merchants Uptown to pay off the difference.

The other side of the coin is the redevelopment of the surrounding area and Garraghan expressed a great deal of enthusiasm for the future of Uptown Kingston in a Freeman interview.

The mayor said that discussions are now under way with the Forbes-Wallace Company of Springfield, Mass., for the construction of a major department store as an annex to the proposed parking garage.

It is proposed that the new department store would also form the long-sought connecting link between uptown Kingston and the Kingston Shopping Plaza. This would be accomplished, according to Garraghan's tentative plans, by means of a catwalk type of structure between the new department store and the Sears Department store in the plaza.

Garraghan warned, however, that the businesses on that side of North Front Street would have to invest some money in the upgrading of their buildings. "It's always sound business practice to make your building as attractive as possible," Garraghan said.

When it comes to major city construction, Garraghan has shown a willingness to listen to advice and travel to see what other cities are doing, such as in the case of his trip with the aldermen to Oneida to see that city's new city hall.

Yesterday, Garraghan met with two officials from the newly-created New York State Urban Development Corporation, terming them "the two smartest guys who ever walked into my office," Garraghan discussed financing of urban renewal projects in general with the two and building of parking garages in detail.

Going to Buffalo

Partly as a result of that meeting, Garraghan has made plans for a trip to Buffalo to meet with one Charles Turner, a businessman of that city whom Garraghan says is "an expert on parking garages."

Garraghan's assessment of the whole parking garage situation? "I'm going to get the best information available (on these parking garages). 'We'll work this thing out.'"

Sleightsburg Residents Protest 'Unsupervised' Halfway House

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

PORT EWEN

A large group of Sleightsburg residents Wednesday night expressed their deep concern about the establishment of a family care unit for rehabilitation of former mental patients in their community.

A delegation from Sleightsburg presented a petition to Esopus Town Board with 82 signatures objecting to what they called the housing of unsupervised mental patients from Hudson River State Hospital in a so-called halfway house in the former Van Horn Nursing Home.

Supervisor George H. Freer said that although more than 100 persons were in attendance, they were very orderly and the board listened to their complaints. Because of conflicting reports and statements made by officials of Hudson River State Hospital, the Town Board has set up a meeting with mental officials, residents and Edward Wylcenski, supervising social worker of the hospital, to discuss the matter. The tentative date is Tuesday, March 18, at 7:30 p. m. in the Town Hall.

It was reported at the Town Board meeting that there were nine former mental patients at the family care house and five of them were employed at Gateway Industries, Kingston. It was noted that eventually the operator of the house, Mrs. Lillian Becker, RN, expects to have 20 patients as residents in the house.

Supervisor Freer said that he had been in correspondence with Wylcenski, who explained about the rehabilitation and that the house would be supervised at all times.

Esopus Legislator Roger W. Mable, who was also at the meeting, has been in touch with Dr. Herman Snow, superintendent of Hudson River State Hospital, to learn more about the operation of the program.

Freer said that although more than 100 persons were in attendance, they were very orderly and the board listened to their complaints.

They are able to take care of themselves and require only minimal supervision.

A social worker from Hudson River State Hospital inspects the house each week to determine if certain required standards are maintained, Legislator Mable said.

In other business, the Town Board unanimously adopted Local Law No. 1-1969 to control junk cars. Under the new law effective as soon as filed with the N. Y. Secretary of State Office, the town can order cars removed by a local contractor after sufficient notice is given and ignored, and the expense of removal can be charged to the property owner on his tax bill.

Also, a public informational meeting has been scheduled for Friday, April 11 at 8 p. m. in the town hall for residents of the park district to discuss with the Ross Park Commission plans for the modernization and improvement of the park.

Supervisor Freer reported that the State Department of Transportation in a letter he read denied the town's requests to improve the hazardous conditions on Route 213 from Edenville Bridge past the intersection of Union Center Road. The town wanted the yield sign at the intersection of New Salem Road replaced by a full stop sign or a flashing signal and also wanted a street light installed and cross road warning sign at Union Center Road.

The Transportation Department advised the Town Board that the town can install the street light and caution sign but must first notify the department of its intentions.

5-Year Joint Parleys End For County Plans Groups

By SHANE CROSBY

With a "good luck" and a reminder that the public "is looking over your shoulder," members of planning boards for six Ulster County communities were given a send off by their professional consultant firm here Wednesday night as they seek adoption of their plans.

Representatives of planning boards for the communities of Hurley, Marlinton, Rosendale and its village, Rochester and Wawarsing met for the last time as a group with the consultant firm of Brown and Anthony, ending almost five years of combined study on community development planning.

The Major Problem
Robert Kren of the New Jersey firm told the more than 50 board members present: "The major problem will be in adopting the regulations we have gone through." He said the proposed zoning ordinances and development plans for the six areas had a common "basic concept" of "providing for future growth."

He presented each planning board with their multi-colored maps and guideline publications following the brief meeting held in the Rondout Valley Central High School. During the meeting, boards were also given a memo covering the "procedures for adoption" of their plans.

John W. Scribano, chairman of the Rondout Valley-Esopus Planning Study as well as chairman of the Rochester Planning Board, reminded the boards that the "philosophy and policy" of the joint study had been to have its actions "determined by the people." He advised the boards to have "public participation" before adoption of their plans, saying "we are in trouble" if the boards do not involve the public.

"Somebody," meaning the public, "is looking over your shoulder," Scribano reminded them.

Reviews the Work

Reviewing the five years of joint work on community plans, the chairman said "today we are a little better organized than we were five years ago." He pointed to guideline books on zoning the group had used, saying one "Local Planning and Zoning" was "The Bible."

"A lot of mistakes are being made" by planning boards "because someone did not see The Bible," Scribano said. To possibly avoid any such mistakes, Kren told the boards the consultant firm would be ready to serve individual communities in the future "at cost."

Kren had worked with each group as required under state individual board when they had law in certain situations, and worked on their respective development plans and said to them that changes "have Wednesday" the same basic concepts were followed in each of the boards was cited, and members to avoid conflicting laws with hers were reminded a number bordering towns that might of times to "get it (the memo) have resulted in a business zone down pa."

on one side of a border and a residential zone on the other side.

"In some areas," said Kren, there are "some differences in lot sizes" at border lines, but he added that he did not "see any major problem at all." In areas such as High Falls where the community flows over the town lines of Marlinton and Rosendale, Kren noted that boards of both towns had provided for similar lot sizes.

Herbert Hekler of the Ulster County Planning Board told the group that the plans they have at this time are "basic sound concepts for the growth of this valley." Hekler wishes the boards "Good luck" and said he hoped they "will stick to" the plans they have.

He reminded them of a problem now faced by the City of Kingston where the city apparently did not submit zoning changes to the county planning group as required under state law in certain situations, and told them that changes "have Wednesday" the same basic concepts were followed in each of the boards was cited, and members to avoid conflicting laws with hers were reminded a number bordering towns that might of times to "get it (the memo) have resulted in a business zone down pa."

Chinese and Soviet frontier forces clashed on the island March 2, with losses on both sides. The incident touched off a wave of protests and denunciations in Peking and Moscow. ## Central Registration in Effect For Ulster County Residents

KINGSTON Central registration for voting in November is now in effect at the Ulster County Board of Elections in the county office building, Main and Fair Streets, Kingston.

Prospective voters may now apply in person at the office any day during business hours, except Saturday, Sunday or holidays. Central registration will continue to within 30 days immediately preceding the first day of local registration in town or city voting districts. There will also not be any central registration with 10 days immediately prior and five days immediately after the primary election June 17.

Mrs. Valerie L. Q. Sheeley, deputy commissioner of elections said permanent personal registration (PPR) is only permanent as long as voters continue to reside at the address from which they registered and as long as they vote at least once in a two-year period. Therefore, if any voter has changed residence since last registration, they must re-register this year.

In addition to central registration in Kingston there will be a final opportunity to register in the voting places in each town and each ward in the city during the regular weekend local registration days to be announced.

Any questions regarding registration or voting procedure may be asked at the Board of Elections office in the county office building. Mrs. Sheeley pointed out that there are many deadlines throughout the year and if voters delay, it may be too late to handle unusual situations in registration and voting.

City—$3,834 From State for Youth Program

ALBANY Governor Rockefeller announced today that $3,834 in state aid has been allocated by the State Division for Youth to the City of Kingston for a community youth recreation project.

"The City of Kingston is to be commended for joining more than 1,300 municipalities who take part in this phase of Division for Youth programs," the Governor said. "This marks the 24th year that the community and the State have joined together in providing wholesome recreation activities for the youth of the community."

Milton Luger, director of the Division for Youth, noted that last year the State of New York furnished $6.5 million in State aid for the establishment, operation, and maintenance of municipal youth bureaus, recreation projects, and youth service projects.

An application for State aid submitted by Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan indicates that Kingston will spend a total of $7,700 during the year to provide organized youth activities.

Among the activities included in this program are softball, baseball, basketball, ice skating, swimming, three bus trips to various places of interest, a Christmas party and senior citizens nights.

The agency responsible for the conduct of this program is Kingston Recreation Commission of which Emile Taiclet is chairman. The director of recreation is A. J. Murphy III.

New Structures to Replace Lumber Firm Buildings

NEW HACKENSACK Two main buildings that were razed by a multiple-alarm fire at the Lloyd Lumber Co. on Route 9 late Tuesday, will be replaced with modern, new structures and the work will be started immediately, according to Frederick Dell Sr., owner of the Carmel-based lumber company chain.

Officials of the company said after examining the ruins left in the wake of the major blaze that was battled by 11 fire companies more than four hours before the flames were brought under control, said the loss would "run far in excess of $250,000."

The fire broke out in the basement of the huge one-story frame building shortly after an employee and a customer had left the cellar of the display building.

Investigators noted that the blaze probably was caused by a malfunction on the heating system.

The flames that were swept into a conflagration proportion by strong winds, were fed by large supplies of paint and building materials. Both large structures were burned to the ground, as firemen concentrated their efforts on saving other buildings and piles of lumber and materials in the yard.

The owner of the company in assessing the loss, commented, "this fire happened right at the point where business was becoming really nice. It came as a hard blow."

During the height of the blaze, several volunteer firemen narrowly escaped being crushed under tons of brick that fell as a chimney toppled to the ground.

State Police and deputy sheriffs blocked Route 9 to traffic for hours until hoses and fire apparatus were moved. Traffic was detoured to Route 32.

Parker Executive Director Of Community Action Unit

Eddie Parker was appointed executive director of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, Inc., at the Tuesday meeting of the Board of Directors.

Parker has been associated with the Ulster County Community Action Committee, Inc., since its inception. He was the first chairman of the Rondout Advisory Board, and has worked with the summer programs and Pre-Vocational programs.

He is presently secretary of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, a member of the Kingston Human Relations Commission, the Ulster County N.A.A.C.P. and New York State Teachers Association.

Parker brings to the Ulster County Community Action Committee his experience as a teacher and instructor from the State Training School for Children with special knowledge in Child Care and Activity.

Parker, 34, is married and has 3 children.

Douw S. Meyers Jr., president, who introduced Parker to the board, announced that Parker will assume his new duties on April 1, when the anti-poverty effort in Ulster County will receive new leadership and guidance.

John Ward was a color TV holdout... too many service problems left him in doubt.

Then we showed him our "works in the drawer"

John Ward was afraid of what Color TV would cost after he paid for it. And he was right. Color TV can be a costly problem. Unless it's Quasar.

In Quasar, you have two things going for you. All solid-state components, (except rectifier and picture tube) for years of dependable performance. And the fast, at-home service you can only get when the works are in a drawer.

Unlike tubes, our solid-state components are designed to work without burning themselves out. You get space-age dependability for sound, for picture, for color.

But we didn't stop with dependability. We made service a snap, too. We put most components (all 10 of our tubeless mini-circuits) in a drawer. And we designed them so that they snap in and snap out. In minutes.

A repairman comes into your home, pulls out the drawer, snaps in a replacement circuit, pushes the drawer back, and that's it. The most you may miss is a few commercials.

If you've been waiting for something better in Color TV, why wait any longer... Quasar's here!

Quasar prices start at $669.00

U.S. Losses in Red Drive Top the Two-Week Tet Toll

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. head-quarters said today the first two weeks of the current Communist offensive has taken a higher toll in American dead and wounded than the first two weeks of the Tet offensive in 1968.

Communist losses for the opening 14 days of the now 19-day-old offensive have been lighter than during the first two weeks of Tet—10,876 this time compared with 29,228 guerrillas dead in Tet.

The figures appeared in the weekly U.S. casualty report which showed a drop-off in casualties on both sides last week from losses that hit a 10-month high in the opening week of the offensive.

Communist gunners mean-critically wounded in a booby trap blast as he tried to rip down a Communist flag from the ledge of a downtown building. Two other persons were wounded in the blast.

Ten waves of B52 stratoforts rained nearly two million pounds of bombs into Communist bivouacs outside Saigon from which the U.S. command expects the attack on the capital. Thunderclaps from the explosions rolled across the city.

No major ground fighting was reported around the capital following two days of battling on approaches to the city that left 297 Communists dead against five American troops killed.

In one incident, a Vietnamese policeman was killed.

Cong Warning On Retaliation

PARIS (UPI)—The Viet Cong today warned the United States against retaliating for the Communist offensive now raging across South Vietnam. They deplored allied protests as "ballyhoo."

The Communists told President Nixon to look at history and see the "ignominious failure" of the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam brought his predecessor, former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The chief Viet Cong delegate to the Vietnam peace talks, Tran Bui Kiem, declared that "if the U.S. administration commits new adventurous acts of war under the pretext of an 'appropriate response' to the recent attacks . . . it will bear full responsibility for the consequences."

"Appropriate response" was a term Nixon had used in warning of possible retaliation if the shelling of South Vietnamese population centers continued.

Kiem did not spell out what "consequences" would result.

Chief U.S. negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge branded the shelling "terrorist attacks on the civilian population." South Vietnam's chief delegate, Pham Dang Lam, warned that his government "will not stand idly by and accept an increase in the intensity of the war by the Communist side."

The verbal attacks at today's eighth negotiating session indicated little chance of a breakthrough toward peace soon.

Prior to the latest conference, diplomats predicted the session would produce little more than Allied demands that the Communists end their attacks on South Vietnamese cities, followed by a Viet Cong and North Vietnamese rejection.

But the Communist attacks on the cities, which the Allies said were designed to bolster Viet Cong and North Vietnamese bargaining hands were really a side issue, the diplomats said.

The heart of the deadlock, they said, lay in the Communist refusal to agree to a withdrawal of both U.S. and North Vietnamese forces from South Vietnam as a first big step toward peace.

Communist sources indicated the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong would continue to oppose the Allied withdrawal plan.

There can be no conference progress until the Americans alone pull out, they said.

Before today's session, diplomatic observers predicted the Communists would react to South Vietnam's early adjournment of last week's session.

In that session, South Vietnam denounced the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacks on its towns and said such strikes made talking in Paris useless. Then the Saigon delegation asked that the session adjourn, which it did.

Laird Mum on Troop Cut Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retaliation the United States might take over the enemy of Vietnam, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird is remaining silent on one of the missions that took him to the war zone and says he has reached no conclusion about a second.

President Nixon sent Laird on his first inspection of South Vietnam since becoming Pentagon chief to study whether American troops strength could be cut back and to check on the intensity and progress of the current enemy offensive.

On his return home Wednesday night, Laird had nothing to say about what he might report to President Nixon about any war optimism by one of his predecessors, Robert S. McNamara, Laird said: "I think we've had too many of those in the past."

The U.S. force in Vietnam now stands at 541,500, or 8,000 men short of the currently approved ceiling supposed to be reached by midyear.

Laird told reporters he gave close attention during his first inspection trip as defense chief to improvement of the South Vietnamese military forces.

"We did look into the modernization of the forces of South Vietnam, the air force, army and navy," he said.

"I think we have to push this program forward at a more rapid pace in order that more of the responsibility for the war fire, against some 125 military installations, cities and hamlets throughout South Vietnam.

The enemy offensive that has caused Nixon to consider retaliation against North Vietnam started in the last week in February with a series of assaults, mainly by shelling and mortar which has never been specified.

Altered ABM Plan?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, returning from Vietnam to find the administration still grappling with the hot political problem of missile defense, says he expects President Nixon to press ahead with an altered version of the Sentinel system.

Nixon delayed announcing a decision on the embattled program, originally expected early in the week, until after he conferred today with Laird.

He is now expected to have something to say on the subject at a nationally broadcast news conference at noon Friday, although there is no assurance of a final decision even then.

After stepping from the Air Force jet that brought him home from his week-long trip to Vietnam, Laird said Wednesday night he expected Nixon to make changes in the Sentinel program that was approved by the Johnson administration.

"I didn't think at the time I left we would go forward with the Sentinel as planned," Laird told newsmen at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland.

Laird, who has indicated support for antiballistic missile defense, said he didn't know exactly what the changes in the $5.5-billion program might be. But he said he had presented Nixon with several options for modifying the Sentinel before he went to Vietnam.

PREVIEW CROWD — A total of 75 persons attended the Dale Carnegie Course preview Wednesday night at the Holiday Inn. Hal Schultz, Dale Carnegie representative details the course for those attending the meeting. The course is being offered as a public service to the community under the sponsorship of The Kingston Daily Freeman. Classes will start next Wednesday and will continue for 14 weeks. ## GOP Action Could Spare Some School Aid Loss ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Republicans running the legislature's fiscal committees were reported today to have settled on a plan that would produce savings of between $70 million and $100 million in Gov. Rockefeller's proposed $6.4 billion budget.

Informal sources said the basic approach, to be announced next week, will be to put into effect this year the long-range cuts in state-aid formulas that Rockefeller recommended for next year.

At the same time, the more immediate five per cent, across-the-board cutback in spending that Rockefeller proposed would be applied to programs not affected by the aid formulas.

As a result, the sources said, the legislature will be able to spare school districts across the state a $60-million loss of state aid in the final quarter of their present school year.

The governor was said to have given his assent to these maneuvers.

Rockefeller's original plan was to trim five per cent from the normally higher levels of spending, including school aid, in the state fiscal year beginning April 1.

The total saving would be $283 million.

School officials promptly protested, however, pointing out that, since they were on a July-through-June fiscal year, they would still be in the last quarter of their present budgets when the cutback began.

These budgets had been adopted in anticipation of normally higher state aid and, if it were not paid, they said, they would have to borrow money or raise taxes to meet their obligations.

The legislature's Republican leaders, Sen. Earl W. Brydges and Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea Jr., promised to relieve the problem somehow.

The device that they and their fiscal committee chairman have settled on is a simple one—leaving aid at its normal level for April, May and June and cutting a bit deeper for the remaining nine months of the state's next fiscal year.

They decided that the best way to do this would be to go ahead now with the long-range formula revisions that Rockefeller had recommended for the fiscal year beginning in April 1970.

The governor's plan was eased into the more fundamental state-aid changes so that communities would have plenty of time to adjust.

The formula changes would have plenty of time to adjust. The formula changes would reduce aid in varying amounts for a variety of school programs, narrow the scope of the welfare and Medicaid programs and curb aid for local health and mental health activities.

The sources said the current plan was to apply the new formulas effective July 1, in most instances, to make "selective cuts" in areas not affected by the formulas and to apply the five per cent principle in instances where neither of the first two steps is possible.

The effect of this combination, the sources said, would be to save $70 million more than had been anticipated. Another $30 million could be saved by implementing the welfare and Medicaid changes on April 1, a matter still under discussion.

The new approach has no bearing on Rockefeller's other budget-balancing proposal—raising the state's sales tax from two to three cents on the dollar, a move worth $340 million in new revenue.

Saving Wildlife

National Wildlife Week is to be observed during the March 16-22 period. And as the years wear on, this week's significance becomes steadily greater and the problem it signifies steadily more severe.

Natural causes have brought on what might be termed a conflict of interests. An increasing population, with far more leisure than it had in past times, with almost total mobility due to the omnipresent automobile and a magnificent system of roads reaching almost everywhere, spends more time in the outdoors—in the home of wildlife in all its varied and wonderful forms. At the same time the demands and needs of that population, as represented by housing developments, airports, industrial areas, and those roads themselves, implacably reduce, each year, the acreage given to wood and water and the wild. The pressure of our wildlife, whether it be fur or fin or feather, is enormous and the screw turns faster all the time.

Before it is too late, we must stop and consider what this loss of natural environment will mean. Animals from deer to robins need food and cover, clean waters, and room to roam—if they are to survive. Areas destroyed by our civilized progress are finished as far as wildlife habitat is concerned.

Spaces for wildlife cannot be treeless subdivisions; they cannot be factory sites or drained marshlands; they cannot be stream beds for sewage or speeding lanes for power boats.

Providing habitats, those vital living areas for wildlife, is a matter of choice and economics. The choice is simply: "Do we value this heritage of natural beauty?" If so, we must decide that the beauty of wild animals in natural settings is worth the expense and effort of developing and protecting habitats.

The presence of wildlife in our fast-moving world means that we have not yet destroyed the delicate balance of nature. The prospect of moon travel may fire our imaginations but the wild beauty of this world is unbeatable for giving a little peace of mind. To ensure a future for this great natural heritage, the National Wildlife Federation, during Wildlife Week is urging us all to "Provide Habitat—Places Where Wildlife Live."

Future U.S. Spy Ships

While national attention has been concentrated on the continuing Court of Inquiry in California of the Pueblo's captain, Commander Lloyd M. Bucher and his crew, the Navy's top admiral told Congress that future Pueblo-like missions will be backed by forces that could go to their rescue at a moment's notice.

Admiral Thomas H. Moorer, Chief of Naval Operations, told a House Armed Services subcommittee no rescue forces had been placed on alert for the Pueblo because its listening mission off the North Korean coast—to intercept Soviet ship messages and keep them under surveillance—was considered a "minimal risk" operation.

The decision was made by field commanders and approved by the Chiefs of Staff, on which Moorer serves, but he said, "It is easy to see now that we goofed." Unfortunately, the Navy's error of judgment does not help Bucher and his crew, who suffered a year of hell in captivity.

Moorer revealed that each month, the Joint Chiefs act on a "package" of proposed missions. He insisted that the Pueblo was conducting an overt mission, not a spy mission, but he did not distinguish between them.

As the reviewing officer of actions the Court of Inquiry may take, Moorer said nothing that could prejudice its decisions. But he said enough to indicate that the error that placed the Pueblo, its crew and its precious cargo of intelligence equipment in jeopardy was one of the entire chain of command, not alone of the commander of the doomed ship.

"This Time We Mean It!"

David Lawrence Says Two U.S. Court Decisions Will Bewilder Mayors

WASHINGTON — Mayors of cities throughout the country will find themselves bewildered about how to preserve law and order when they read the texts of two decisions just rendered by the Supreme Court of the United States.

In one case, the court reversed the conviction of a Negro minister who was charged with violating a city ordinance which made it an offense to participate in any parade or procession or other public demonstration "on the streets or other public ways" without first obtaining a permit from the city commission.

The court's opinion says that to require a permit or license which may be granted or withheld at the discretion of a public official is unconstitutional and in violation of "freedom of speech" under the First Amendment.

It was argued by the city, however, that what was involved was not "pure speech," but the use of public streets and sidewalks "over which a municipality must rightfully exercise a great deal of control in the interest of traffic regulation and public safety."

Justice Stewart, who wrote the court's majority opinion, said that, while the foregoing is true, the decisions of the high court "have also made clear that picketing and parading may nonetheless constitute methods of expression entitled to First Amendment protection."

The significant fact is that the Supreme Court of the United States takes it for granted that a city doesn't have the right to determine for itself in advance whether a particular demonstration is likely to provoke disorder. Certainly the applicants for a permit always insist that they intend to conduct a "non-violent" demonstration, but again and again violence ensues.

In another case decided by the high court on Monday, Dick Gregory had been charged with an offense of disorderly conduct. The Chicago police commanded him and the other demonstrators to disperse, but this demand was not obeyed. The high court said he was arrested and convicted for holding a demonstration and not for his refusal to obey a police officer. In a concurring opinion by Justice Black, joined by Justice Douglas, appears this informative quotation:

"These facts disclosed by the record point unerringly to one conclusion, namely, that when groups with diametrically opposed, deep-seated views are permitted to air their emotional grievances, side by side, on city streets, tranquility and order cannot be maintained even by the joint efforts of the finest and best officers and of those who desire to be the most law-abiding protestors of their grievances."

"It is because of this truth, and a desire both to promote order and to safeguard First Amendment freedoms, that this court has repeatedly warned states and governmental units that they cannot regulate conduct connected with these freedoms through use of sweeping, dragnet statutes that may, because of vagueness, jeopardize these freedoms. In those cases, however, we have been careful to point out that the Constitution does not bar enactment of laws regulating conduct, even though connected with speech, press, assembly, and petition, if such laws specifically bar only the conduct deemed obnoxious and are carefully and narrowly aimed at that for bidden conduct."

"The dilemma revealed by this record is a crying example of a need for some such narrowly drawn law. It is not our duty and indeed not within our power to set out and define with precision just what statutes can be lawfully enacted to deal with situations like the one confronted here by police and protestors, both of whom appear to us to have been conscientiously trying to do their duties as they understood them."

But the big question is how, in view of the rulings this week, anybody now can write a law that will effectively prevent all the different kinds of disorder which result from street demonstrations. Perhaps the answer lies in a constitutional amendment authorizing states or cities to enact laws permitting local officials to use their discretion and allow, in certain cases, only auditoriums, halls, stadiums and parks to be used so that street traffic will not be hindered or injured by inflamed innocent bystanders.

may be moved to ask: "So what? What's wrong with movements that appear above all to stress an admirable spirit of self-determination?"

The quote from Drucker gives his answer as it applies to tribal splinters masquerading as nations. They are incapable of governing. They seldom have an economic base or even much to govern. Scores of so-called independent nations today have populations of less than a million — barely the size of one major U.S. city. Some are almost town-village size.

As for the kind of tribalism Rustin has in mind, he sees it fundamentally as a device of escape, a shunning of competition and responsibility, an attempt to withdraw within some artificial shell and somehow exist — miraculously in full political, social and economic health — in the larger framework of an established great nation.

Rustin gets even harsher. He argues that black separatists, far from being bold adventurers on the frontiers of a "liberation movement," actually suffer from a "lack of social courage." They run from the battle with reality.

The same perhaps may be said for that other restless American "tribe" — the disruptive, destructive white radical students who pretend that the leveling of society's organizations, from the nation on down, will usher in the great freedoms they say they want.

Drew Pearson Says Some White House Cliques Complicate Nixon Command

WASHINGTON — Although President Nixon has stressed to his aides that he doesn't want them to form cliques and maneuver for power, this is precisely what has been going on ever since he took command of the White House.

One clique is headed by Bryce Harlow, chief legislative aide, who formerly tended Washington chores for Proctor and Gamble, the soapmakers. His tight little group, which also includes Bob Ellsworth and Charlie McWhorter, is politically oriented. Its recommendations to the President are heavily influenced by politics.

Another bloc has formed around Bob Haldeman, Dwight Chapin and Ron Ziegler, all former whiz kids from the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency, who are more concerned with efficiency than ideology. They have sought to impose their ideas of smooth management upon the White House staff. Haldeman's bright, brash 23-year-old assistant, Larry Higbee, has caused the most resentment by attempting to order his elders around.

The two top policymakers on the President's staff — Henry Kissinger for foreign affairs and Dr. Arthur Burns for domestic policies — are also developing their own personal coteries. Some unspoken friction has developed between Dr. Burns, a renowned economist, and Dr. Paul McCracken, the President's chief economic adviser. McCracken has taken pains to let other staff members know that he has direct access to the President and doesn't clear his economic reports with Burns.

Meanwhile, the President has made it plain that he doesn't want small cliques to regulate his access to ideas and individuals. He also doesn't want departmental matters processed through three or four assistants before they reach him.

Unless he intervenes, however, this is what will continue to happen.

Diamonds and Mink
The United Mine Workers' chief, tough Tony Boyle, took offense over a report in this column the other day that union officials were living in high style on the dues paid by hard-working wage slaves who live in constant fear of cave-ins, lay-offs and black lung.

In a blaze of publicity, Boyle appeared on Capitol Hill the other day to dramatize his fealty to the mine workers by expressing indignation over unsafe mines.

What the cameras missed was his redheaded wife, sitting in the front row of the Senate hearing room, behind a great, round pair of green goggles. She was wearing five rings, two bracelets, one diamond wrist watch, a gold necklace with a pendant watch and matching cameo pin and earrings.

Seated alongside her was Mrs. John Owens, wife of the Mine Workers' secretary-treasurer, in a full-length mink coat.

Nixon's Chowder Club
Since President Nixon came to power, the most exclusive society in Washington is the Chowder and Marching Club, whose members are elected by secret ballot and sit in the government's highest policy councils.

Nixon was one of the 15 founders of the club, which grew out of a legislative huddle in the House 20 years ago. The 15 charter members got together behind closed doors on a Wednesday in March, 1949 to discuss a veterans pension bill. The club now has expanded to 40 members, who continue to hold closed sessions on Wednesdays.

They are celebrating their 20th anniversary this week with three days of festivities, including a private White House dinner, a banquet for guests and a golf outing.

Meanwhile, President Nixon has drawn on the Chowder and Marching Club for some of his juiciest appointments. Among them are Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, Republican National Chairman Rogers Morton, Securities and Exchange Chairman Hamer Budge, Interstate Commerce Commission members in line for juicy appointments, including Jim Battin, who will be named to the federal bench in Montana.

Mike's Fade Away

Mike Kirwan, the sometimes benevolent, sometimes cantankerous Congressman from Youngstown, Ohio, will retire from public life at the end of this Congress. He will be 83 years old.

He will begin his quiet fade-away in a few weeks by stepping down after 21 years from the chairmanship of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee.

The liberal bloc known formally as the Democratic Study Group has demanded a reorganization of the committee, which, in times past, has tended to favor financially the old mossbacks. Speaker John McCormack agreed to the shake-up, and Kirwan offered no objections.

"I'll be glad to step aside, but first I want to improve the finances for the new chairman," he told McCormack.

For this purpose, Kirwan will hold a gala $500-a-plate dinner for House Democrats in Washington May 12. He will also organize a gavel club, comparable to the GOP Booster club, as a fund raising apparatus.

His successor as campaign chairman probably will be either Massachusetts Rep. "Tip" O'Neill or Oklahoma Rep. Ed Edmondson.

Note: Kirwan has chalked up an amazing record of campaign victories on tight budgets. Since he took over the chairmanship in January 1948, the Republicans have won House majority in only one Congressional election. A preponderance of Republicans was swept into Congress in the Eisenhower landslide of 1952.

No Talkee

Two American diplomats Paul Kriesberg, a Chinese expert, and Don Anderson, a Chinese linguist, flew to Warsaw for the abortive talks with the Chinese Communists last month and remained there for several days trying to reschedule the meeting.

They worked through Jack Scanlon, the American embassy's contact man, who has kept the channel open with the Chinese embassy by telephone. However, Scanlon was unable to bring Kriesberg and Anderson together with the Chinese, even for an unofficial conference.

Henry J. Taylor Says True Work of Churchmen Lags

In the Berkeley university riots some more clergymen have been collared by the police. The street-demonstrating clergymen are on very shaky ground, indeed, and it is high time they returned to the blessed task of their real calling.

We are seeing the churches gradually liquidate their influence as a spiritual power, and thus as a stabilizing influence. And surely this is partly due to those ministers and church leaders who commit the historic mistake of using the church itself as a political lever.

Hand in hand with this, of course, the true work of our churchmen is lagging badly.

The "Yearbook of American Churches," issued by the National Council of Churches, shows that membership has by no means kept up with our nation's population growth. It increased last year by less than one-half of one percent.

As the alarming, tragic gap grows and grows the churches' avowed membership level stays around 126.4 million. The major distributions are Protestants, 73 million; Roman Catholics, 47.5 million; Jews, 5.7 million. We have 321,079 churches staffed by 360,092 clergymen.

The church attendance figures, however, are even more important. And dedicated clergymen, the tireless and sacrificial men of God who are the overwhelming majority, anxiously seeking to improve these figures, must wonder how so many other clergymen have the time to be marching and riot-mixing and yackety-yacking on secular affairs on TV and doing nearly everything else but tend to their church's knitting.

Authorities agree that not more than 50 per cent of the avowed membership, at most, attends church regularly or with frequency, and that an enormous percentage attend church with no frequency at all.

Meanwhile, a Gallup poll asked again, as it has through the years, whether religion as a whole is losing its influence. When taken in 1957, 14 per cent replied "yes." In 1962, 31 per cent said so. Now 45 per cent feel that religion is losing its influence. The street-demonstrating ministers might well note that this is more than three times the 1957 percentage. Only 33 per cent say religion is increasing its influence.

Had you or I stood with Napoleon on the deck of the ship on the way to his last prison at Saint Helena, we would have heard him make an unusual confession — unusual for Napoleon.

Napoleon, you recall, was hostile to religious thought. Yet there he stands at the end, pointing up to the stars and you hear him remark: "Say what you please, someone created and controls all that." It is a universal awe.

The church, in turn, is to the battered man or woman what a harbor is to a battered ship. Prominent Layman William J. Moll has wisely explained that the real reason people go to church regularly is to discover what God wants them to do.

A church is a place of submission to the will of God. Who gives answers to questions and helps the seeker reach hard decisions and to know "the Gospel for today."

It is only by regular attendance that people — who, in fact, are the church — can contribute their strength to the struggle. And as the ordained shepherd of his church's flock, leading this struggle internally, the wise minister has a full-time task.

The Gallup Report

Adults Favor Expelling Campus Lawbreakers

Copyright, 1969, American Institute of Public Opinion. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with written consent of the copyright holders.

PRINCETON, N. J.—"I like the way Father Hesburgh of Notre Dame handled students who acted up," said a middle-aged Illinois housewife. "He gave them 15 minutes to shape up or ship out."

As campus turmoil across the land continues and the demands of students reach new extremes, the mood of the public is becoming increasingly hard line and bitter. At the same time, however, many Americans feel that college students have legitimate grievances and should not be denied the right to demonstrate in a peaceful manner.

Throughout the nation eight adults in every ten think college students who break laws while participating in campus demonstrations should be expelled. And a similar proportion think Federal loans should be withdrawn from campus lawbreakers.

In addition, 7 persons in 10 interviewed in the latest Gallup survey believe college students should not have a greater say in the running of their institutions. As far as students having a greater say in determining the curriculum, is concerned, an earlier Gallup report showed 55 per cent of adults opposed.

Young Adults More Sympathetic
But a sharp difference in viewpoint becomes apparent when the survey findings are looked at in terms of age level. Not only are younger adults, those in their twenties, less likely to favor expelling campus lawbreakers, but they are also much more inclined than older persons to think students should have a greater say in running their colleges and in deciding on courses.

A Lyndhurst, Ohio, resident in his twenties said: "College students feel that nobody has faced up to their problems. Active civil disobedience is a powerful tool. The American system does not address itself to many of these problems. You have to shout to be heard."

Puzzled Over Student Behavior
Confusion as to the goals of students underlies current attitudes toward campus turmoil. When asked why they think students are engaging in demonstrations and riots, many Americans admit they are puzzled. Others feel that students themselves do not know the reasons.

Here are the reasons given most frequently:

Why Students Demonstrate
1. Students want to change things—college, society as a whole. They are anti-Establishment. "Kids today see wrongs that others are blind to," said a youthful Portland, Oregon, resident.

2. They want a voice—they want to be listened to and they know they can be heard this way. A 32-year old man from Dallas said: "Students have learned from the civil rights movement that violence and threats bring results."

3. The demonstrations are caused by a small minority—only a few students cause the trouble.
4. Outside agitators are starting the trouble. The demonstrations and riots are communist-inspired. "It's carefully planned anarchy," said a 65-year old Virginia housewife. "But the kids aren't aware of it—they're going along like sheep."

5. The upbringing of youth has been too permissive—they have too much freedom, lack discipline.
6. Students like the publicity. "If the newsmen would take their cameras off the campus, we'd have the problem half licked," said one midwestern homeowner.

Other reasons given for student demonstrations are: They want thrills, excitement; it's the "in thing" to do; students want new challenges; they are "misfits," "malcontents."

Number One Topic

Over 300 trained Gallup interviewers talked to a total of 1,511 adults in a national survey conducted February 21 through 24. When interviewers sat down in the homes of typical citizens, it soon became apparent that the issue of campus turmoil is supercharged. As a matter of fact, the Gallup Poll's Conversation Index shows student demonstrations to be presently the number one topic of serious discussion in homes across America.

Liberty Amendment

Editor, The Freeman:

With income tax date just around the corner, I felt this an opportune time to acquaint the readers of this paper with the Liberty Amendment.

Most of us are becoming concerned about the way taxes are building up at every level of government. When we think of the effect this has upon our families in depriving us of many things we need and want, we ought to be interested in finding a solution.

I think we do have a solution. It is a proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution known as the Liberty Amendment.

Briefly the amendment stipulates that Federal business activities that are not authorized by the Constitution shall be sold back to the public, and the federal personal income tax shall be repealed. This includes inheritance and gift taxes.

Today over 700 federal agencies compete with private enterprise at a great loss. They are involved in insurance, electric generation and transmission, railroads, warehouses, transportation, etc. They consume enormous quantities of our tax dollars, and lose more money every year than is collected by the federal personal income tax.

If the government would turn these agencies over to private businesses, they in turn would pay corporate taxes, which would bring in to the government much more money than the income tax does now. This money would keep the United States operating, protecting our national defense, paying for past, present and future wars.

The Liberty Amendment is at present pending in Congress as H.J. Res. 23, and is already approved by several states.

A complete kit of information can be obtained for $1 by writing to Liberty Amendment Committee of the U.S.A., 6413 Franklin Avenue, Los Angeles, California, 90028.

Funds for Mentally III

The New York State budget

for 1969 has numerous items such as the $700,000.00 for the Gideon Putnam Hotel and grounds. Contrast the proposed five per cent cut for our people who are mentally ill. Does it equate?

Scanning a collection of cold figures, it is easy to lose sight of priority needs. Numbers must be replaced by living children and adults whose care and return to society are our responsibility.

It is agreed, that people, their physical and emotional welfare, are of paramount importance to our government. The New York State five per cent proposed budget cut for the Department of Mental Hygiene replaces regard for the human element with regard for the inanimate.

Mental illness, unlike the common cold, is not self-curing. Professionally trained people and specific types of treatment are prescribed for recovery. Untreated people become sicker, frequently involving their families and so the community.

Yes, build roads for travel, construct ski runs and golf courses for relaxation. They are for people, healthy people. First, though, money must be budgeted for basic health needs.

New York State's attitude has been realistic and progressive toward emotional illness. Concerned citizens must keep the government concerned.

Very truly yours
RUTH GOLD

Retirement Pension Plans Discussed by Rosendale Board

ROSENDALE was of an informational type. A representative of the state was called to a special Town Board meeting here Wednesday to discuss retirement pension plans for town employees. Supervisor Gerard DeFelice said the meeting had been called to investigate various plans of the state for pensions available for municipal employees, most of them would be attached to the highway department. DeFelice said the meeting was was of an informational type. Board would have to consider various angles to the pension problems before any decision could be made. The meeting had been scheduled at a recent Town Board conclave because it was decided to seek "first hand" knowledge rather than rely on written reports. DeFelice said the special meeting was "very helpful" in gaining the information needed to continue the town study of pensions.

Three Hurt, Driver Cited in Ulster Crash

TOWN OF ULSTER A two-car head-on collision on Albany Avenue at Boice's Lane shortly after 8 a. m. today, injured three persons and resulted in a citation for a Kingston motorist for failure to yield the right of way.

The vehicles were operated by Robert P. Zimmerman, 20, of the Green County community of Roundtop, and John Mertes Jr., 31, of Sunset Park, Kingston. The traffic summons was issued to Mertes by Trooper Carl VanWagenen of the Kingston State Police Zone Headquarters. Injured and taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance Service were, Zimmerman, who sustained lacerations of the forehead and bruises of the knees, and his mother, Mrs. Dorothy Zimmerman, 48, also of Roundtop, who received severe lacerations of the forehead as her head hit the windshield. She also was treated for bruises of the knees. Mertes complained of possible injuries of the left knee, troopers reported.

Probe Asked Of City Fire

KINGSTON Fire officials asked city detectives to investigate a suspicious fire that was discovered late Wednesday night at the Morris Bag & Junk Co. yard at 174 Cornell Street. The blaze was reported at 11:45 p. m. and when firefighters arrived in charge of Deputy Chief Glynn Southard, they found flames around the exterior of a rear door and frame. The fire was quickly extinguished and officials listed the cause as incendiary. At 11:44 p. m. yesterday, a passing motorist discovered smoke seeping from the Hess Oil Co. service station at Flatbush Avenue and East Chester Street. He notified police and the call was relayed to fire headquarters. Upon arrival firemen found the one-story building completely filled with dense smoke. They smashed through the front door and after groping their way through the smoke, located the fire in a trash container in a concrete block wall. The can was removed and the blaze was quenched with pressurized water. Deputy Southard was in charge of firemen.

Troopers reported the car crossed the highway to the left side and overturned.

Investigating Diner Burglary

KINGSTON A burglary at the Elm Diner at 1-7 Wall Street was under investigation today by detectives in charge of Lt. Lemuel Howard. The break-in was discovered early this morning by a night police patrol, who found a door open. Investigation inside disclosed the juke box and cigarette machine had been rifled. Some pennies were taken from the cash register. According to police, entry was gained by prying the hood off the vent on the roof. The diner is operated by George Zanos of 72 West O'Reilly Street.

We would like to express our gratitude to those who offered their condolences and sympathy and to those who sent cards and flowers during our recent bereavement.

No Changes Reported in Landing Plan

"In spite of a 50 per cent reduction in air traffic by commuter planes, there will be no change in landing procedures for Mountain Airways at Kennedy Airport."

This was the comment of Frank Bloom, the air carrier's president and chief pilot after a specially called meeting of all commuter airlines currently operating in and out of Kennedy Airport, New York City. The session was called in an effort to ease air traffic problems.

"As a result of this meeting," said Bloom, "we are pleased to announce the granting of five Instrument Flight Rule (IFR) slots to Mountain Airways, an allocation which means service as usual, with minimum delays during instrument landing weather, and no curtailment of present flight schedules."

"This is in keeping with the Federal Air Regulation, Part 135, pertaining to scheduled aircraft," Bloom also noted that Mountain Airways, which operates from Aero Lake Airport, Port Ewen, has just passed 160,000 safe seat miles since the air carrier's inaugural flight on May 28, 1968.

The air carrier operates Ulster County's only scheduled flight service between Kingston and John F. Kennedy Airport.

Diploma Time

John T. Molloy (R), vice president and branch manager of Kingston Trust Company, was among 56 graduates who successfully completed a four-week course at the Executive Development School conducted at West Point by the New York State Bankers Association. Presenting a diploma to Molloy is Albert L. Muench Jr., the association's educational director. Ceremonies were held at the Hotel Thayer on the grounds of the United States Military Academy. The school curriculum, developed to meet the needs of bank management, is devoted to the functional aspect of modern bank operations.

Dedrick's to Hold Boat Show

STONE RIDGE
Top marine dealerships throughout the country will soon launch the 1969 boating season with the 12th annual All-Family Boat Show, sponsored by Johnson Motors, longtime leader in the outboard industry. Locally, the All-Family event will be held Saturday, March 15 through Saturday, March 22 at Dedrick's, Stone Ridge.

Throughout the week-long show, Dedrick's will feature a large display of boats, motors, and marine accessories specifically designed to convenience both early season "browsers" and confirmed boating buffs hoping to get on the water with a new boating rig this season.

"All sales and service personnel will be on duty to answer every boating question, and store hours will be 8 to 5 p.m., and 7 to 8 p.m. Monday-Friday, and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays," according to Charles Dedrick, owner of Dedrick's.

"In addition, we'll have rides for all members of the families attending the Boat Show on the all new, all terrain vehicle, the Scrambler. Free refreshments will be available for all."

Boats on display will include Grumman and Duranautic Fishing Boats and Canoes, Johnson and Mohawk Boats, as well as Gator Trailers and the Homelite Fisher-Pierce Outboard Engine.

Also to be shown is the complete 1969 Johnson fishing engine line.

Fairyland Specials

Wizard of Oz and Cinderella specials are being featured at Howard Johnson's restaurant at Routes 28 and 209 in Kingston, in line with the films on television sponsored by the company, it is announced by Gomer Richards Jr., manager of the local restaurant.

The restaurant is decorated as a miniature fairyland featuring characters from the two classic stories, and is featuring a special Wizerella sundae and a free booklet for children, Richards noted.

"Every young guest will receive our eight-page color booklet containing a Wizard of Oz game, the Cinderella story in pictures, a puzzle page and our special children's menu," the manager said. "The booklet and new sundae will be available for eight weeks."

"It's our way of celebrating Howard Johnson's sponsorship of two TV shows, the Wizard of Oz, starring Judy Garland, presented on March 9 and the Cinderella musical by Rodgers and Hammerstein on April 16."

Government Agrees With James Earl Ray, Wishes He Elected to Stand Trial

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

James Earl Ray, quoted as wishing now he had elected to stand trial for the Martin Luther King assassination, was joined in his regrets today by the U.S. Justice Department.

A source in the department said the feeling there over Ray's abrupt guilty plea "is one of frustration." The reason: a full-fledged trial, had one been held, might have shed light on questions which have led to widespread suspicion around the country that Ray was only one figure in a conspiracy.

In Nashville, the Nashville Tennessean said in a copyright story that Ray disclosed second thoughts about the guilty plea within hours of his sentencing in Memphis to an agreed 99 years in prison. Ray also has inquired about how he could hire a new attorney, the paper said.

The story said unidentified official sources quoted Ray as saying:

"When I went to court Monday I was convinced if I didn't plead guilty I was going to the electric chair. I wish the hell I hadn't now because with what they had on me I believe the worst I'd gotten would have been life."

Under Tennessee law a life prisoner could be eligible for parole after 13 years 7 months, or even earlier if he earned maximum good behavior time. Under a 99-year sentence a prisoner must serve at least 30 years.

The Tennessean said a prison source further quoted Ray:

"My attorney and my brother told me about six weeks ago that the best thing for me to do was to plead guilty if we could work out a deal to keep me out of the chair. They told me they thought this could be done."

"I was thinking about it and every day they thought I would plead guilty. Last week I just told them if they thought this was best and what I ought to do, then I would plead guilty."

In Washington, Justice Department sources acknowledged the government was informed in advance that Ray would plead guilty and take 99 years.

But they denied the government was involved in any way with decisions leading up to the sudden move by Ray and his lawyer, Percy Foreman of Houston, Tex.

The only federal action pending against Ray is an FBI charge issued in Birmingham, Ala., April 17, 1968, accusing him of conspiring "with a man alleged to be his brother" to violate King's civil rights in that state.

The charge was brought under an 1870 Reconstruction era statute and conviction would have carried a maximum 10-year sentence.

After Ray was apprehended last June in England, he was returned to Tennessee to face the more serious murder charge.

The government's only involvement in the case since came Monday—after the trial ended—when the Justice Department announced the "conspiracy allegation is still open."

But there has been no word on what action, if any, the department plans in pursuing its investigation.

Meanwhile, on Capitol Hill, senators joined newspapermen across the country in expressing the conspiracy question be held open.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said his Senate Internal Security subcommittee is investigating direct information of conspiracy in the King slaying.

"There are some things about this affair," Eastland declared, "that indicate to me there may have been a conspiracy."

After entering his plea of guilty Monday, Ray stood up and said he disagreed with the theory that no conspiracy was linked with the assassination. He did not elaborate.

Ray's original attorney, former Birmingham, Ala., mayor Arthur Hanes Jr., disagreed with Foreman's contention in his mind that "there was international politics."

Hanes was interviewed on the CBS evening news with Walter Cronkite.

Hanes said there was no question in his mind that "there was international politics."

Probe of House Burglary Results in Three Arrests

WOODSTOCK, N.Y. — Investigation of a house burglary by officers from four police agencies on Wednesday resulted in the arrest of a Saugerties youth and the subsequent arrest in Kingston of two women.

Jeffrey Paul Owin, 18, of 26 Appletree Drive, Saugerties, was taken into custody on a charge of burglary third degree in connection with a burglary at the Theodore Smith residence in this community. Owin was arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan, and in lieu of $1,000 bail was committed to the county jail pending further investigation.

Troopers said the youth was accused of stealing five hand guns, two cameras and equipment and $22 in cash in the burglary.

Later search warrants were obtained by authorities, and through the cooperation of State Police BCI officers, uniformed troopers, Police Chief Francis Fagan and detectives from the Kingston Police Department and County Investigator Harold T. Bowers and deputies from the sheriff's office two Kingston women were taken into custody.

Authorities went to the home of Jeanie Elizabeth Christoforo, 28, at 83 St. James Street, Kingston, and after they searched the residence, she and Jo Ann Schoonmaker, 21, of 37 Liberty Street, Kingston, were arrested on warrants. Both were charged with criminal possession of stolen property, and criminal possession of hypodermic implements. Other articles were reportedly recovered.

The investigation will continue and additional arrests are anticipated, authorities said.

The two women were scheduled for arraignment in City Court.

Church Council Youth Program Set Sunday

SAUGERTIES — The Saugerties Area Council of Churches will present a Youth Night program entitled Fulfillment Sunday, March 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church, Main Street, Saugerties.

The entire program will be conducted by the youth of various Saugerties area churches. The public is invited and encouraged to attend.

Trucker Cited After 209 Crash

TOWN OF ULSTER — An upstate truck driver was cited for four violations Wednesday afternoon, after the tractor-trailer he was driving went out of control and jack-knifed on Route 209 about 2.1 miles south of Route 28 in this township.

Joseph De Lorimiere, 66, of Cohoes, was operating the vehicle when he came upon a school bus that was slowing down. The truck driver applied the brakes of the vehicle and skidded up-grade a distance of 263 feet, according to a report by Trooper Patrick Sheehan.

The truck jack-knifed across the highway.

Trooper Sheehan summoned De Lorimiere to appear before Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly on charges of driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent, failure to keep to the right, having no time card on the truck in violation of the State Labor Law and failure to comply with an order of a police officer.

De Lorimiere was committed to the county jail, but later released when he posted $100 bail. Troopers said the school bus was not involved in the incident.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened on a weak note today in moderately active trading.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI stock market indicator showed a loss of 0.25 per cent. Of the 391 issues on the tape, there were 165 declines and 133 advances.

Steels generally were fractionally lower, while autos moved in both directions. Electronics also were mixed.

Bethlehem fell 1/4 among the steels, while U.S. Steel and Youngstown Sheet gave up similar amounts.

Chrysler lost 1/4 in its group, but Ford rose 1/4.

Pacific Petroleum, a heavily traded issue in recent sessions, added 1/4. Jersey Standard dipped 1/4, with Occidental down 1/4.

In the electronics, Zenith climbed 1/4, but Westinghouse and Sperry Rand fell 1 and 3/4, respectively.

Ebasco Industries fell 1 1/4. Loew's Theatres lost 1 1/4.

Arthur F. Hand Issues Statement on Red Hook Race

RED HOOK communicated further with the governing board of the village of Red Hook must be kept constantly informed on all phases of village government operations. Hand said he decided to campaign for the mayoral office because, "I am fully competent to fulfill all the duties of the mayor's office." The strong desire for a change that has been indicated to me can only come about if all the residents exercise their right to vote for the candidate of their choice. This I strongly urge them to do.

Hand said he chose to run as an independent candidate and as such gives the village residents "complete assurance that, if elected, every individual need, complaint or request will receive my complete attention."

Not All the State Legislature Issues Tailor-Made

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) —Legislative issues are often tailor-made.

Such issues as holding the line on spending, all-out attacks on crime and proposals to avoid tax increases at all costs are appealing and sometimes deliberately created.

In 1964, the GOP-controlled legislature gave Governor Rockefeller's presidential bid a big push when the leaders came up with a program that called for no additional taxes and the fight against crime.

Long before a legislature is rapped to order, especially with an election year in the offing, leaders reach decisions on what will be brought up and what will not be brought up.

Usually, there is little controversy and any issue that might provoke a floor fight is quietly set aside for action at a later date.

However, there are some issues that can't be avoided, regardless of the time. The state budget is one. By law, it must be balanced and the costs of running the government, no matter how big, must be met.

In 1964, the then Senate majority leader, Walter J. Mahoney, argued the budget could be held under $3 billion if no new spending or appropriations were made.

"There will be no costly new programs enacted by the legislature this year," Mahoney said.

"We cannot have in-ture in mind, but also their creased appropriations unless we have new sources of revenue that year, too."

That year the state's budget was slightly under the $3 billion mark. It was labeled a "very austere budget."

Today, the average voter these were pleasant words, but it also was pointed out that not only billion mark, and it's still lab-

did the Republican legislators have Rockefeller's political future in mind, but also their economy, Rockefeller said this year the state must find new revenue to continue its operations.

He proposed a one cent hike in the statewide sales tax and a five per cent cutback in state spending.

There may be a number of issues at the current session of the legislature which will not see the light of day this year. Decentralization of New York City's school system may be left for future action. The governor hinted as much recently when he said it was unfair for upstate legislators to approve something which city lawmakers themselves were unable to agree on.

Six From County Unit Will Attend 1969 Cancer Crusade Kickoff in Syracuse

KINGSTON
Six representatives of the Ulster County Unit, American Cancer Society, will attend the 1969 Cancer Crusade Kickoff of the Society's New York State Division in the Hotel Syracuse, Syracuse, Tuesday March 18, starting at 1:30 p.m.

They are: Dr. Harri H. Janssen, unit president; Dennis L. Pitcock, crusade chairman;

Melvin Mones, co-chairman, City of Kingston; Mrs. Walter D. Yaeger, public education chairman; Mrs. Francis Delaney, member public education committee and Mrs. Paul J. Wendrow, unit executive director.

The Crusade Kickoff will assist volunteers of the Society in their preparations for the launching of the annual Crusade throughout the state on April 1. Funds raised during the Crusade are used for cancer research, education and service to cancer patients.

Volunteers of the American Cancer Society from 54 upstate counties will be attending the annual kickoff.

One of the highlights will be the selection of "Miss Hope 1969 New York State." Candidates from 22 counties will participate in the competition.

Others who will be present to participate in the program are:

Virginia Graham, national chairman of the Crusade and star of television; Carmen Basilio, New York State Crusade Chairman and former middle-weight and welterweight boxing champion of the world.

Dr. James T. Grace Jr., director of Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, Associate State Chairman of the Crusade, and Delegate of Large of the National Society; Miss Mildred Spencer, Science Writer for the Buffalo Evening News.

Miss Maureen Tully, "Miss Hope — 1968 New York State;" Miss Ruth Anne Campbell, "Miss Hope — 1969" of the Ontario Division, Canadian Cancer Society; Lewis T. Fisher, Buffalo, Chairman of the Division's "Miss Hope" committee.

Mrs. Walter P. Yaeger, New Paltz, who will represent the 1,500,000 Americans cured of cancer; John F. Mills, Rochester, chairman of the Division's Crusade Committee.

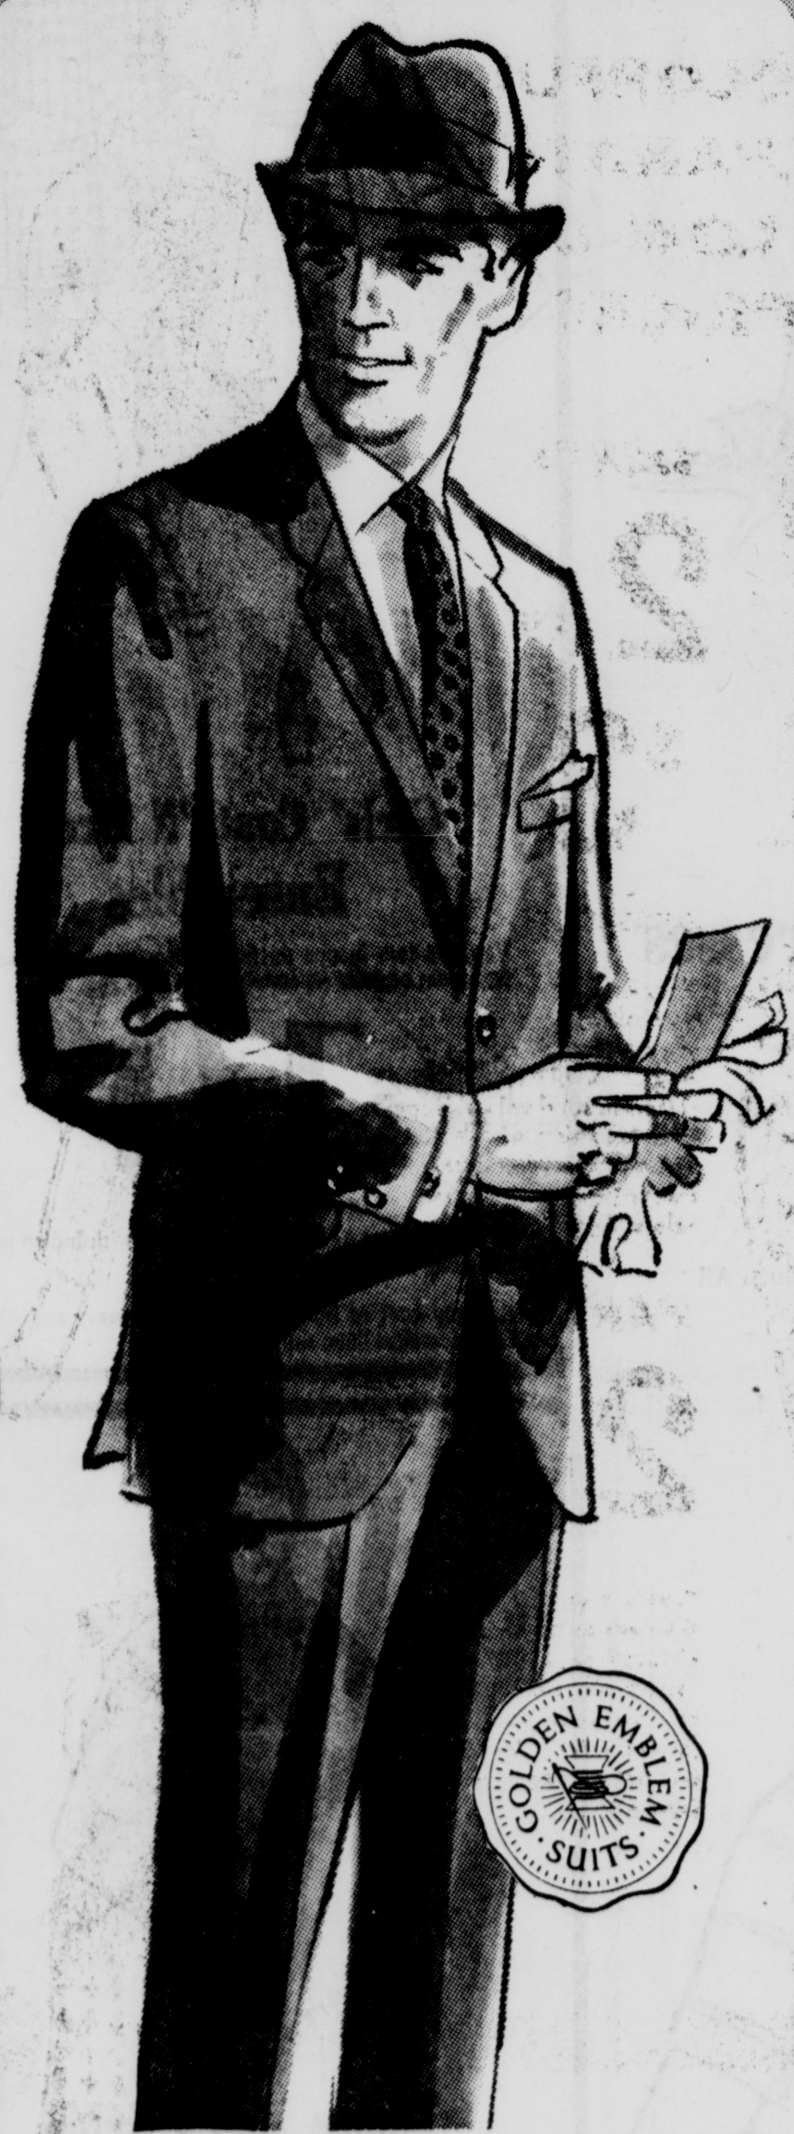

Judge Raymond J. Barth, president of the Society's Onondaga County Unit.

Dr. George W. Greene Jr., Buffalo, president of the New York State Division, will preside at the Crusade banquet at 7:15 p.m. in the Hotel Syracuse.

Legacy of Courage, a film made by the late William Talmán, will also be featured in the program.

Saugerties Y-Teen Club is sponsored by the Kingston YWCA. Adviser for the group will be Mrs. Warren Erney, Redwood Road, Saugerties. Any women interested in assisting with this group in any capacity, please contact Mrs. Erney or the YWCA.

Bake Sale Slated

Boy Scouts of Saugerties Reformed Church who are working for their God and Country Award are conducting a bake sale Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Grants Department Store, Simmons Plaza.

The committee includes Russell Gould, Dirk Gardner, George Turner, Jose Castillo, William Brinnier and Richard Smith. All are candidates for the God and Country Award.

Math Club Ties For First in School Contest

SAUGERTIES
Saugerties Junior High Math Club competed recently in Kingston. Out of five other schools in the Math League, Saugerties and Oneonta Junior High tied for first place in the competition.

Saugerties Junior High was leading all the way until the last question when Oneonta came from behind and tied the match.

The local team included Marc Limeri, Ken Sickler, Cathy Sauer, Tim Meggison and Karen Brooks. Substitutes were Dean Mauro, Lynn Brown, Sue Van Valkenburg and Carol Crystal.

This team is under the direction of Bruce Holmes, junior high math teacher and coordinator of math on the secondary level of the Saugerties Central Schools.

W. Camp Church Sets Program on Biafran Plight

SAUGERTIES
The plight of humans in Nigerian Biafra will be brought into sharp focus Sunday at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West Camp, during a program at 4 p.m. in the church hall.

Miss Ann Vree, first grade teacher in Saugerties Central Schools, who spent 16 months as a Peace Corps teacher in Nigeria will show slides and tell of her experiences while near the Biafran border. She was evacuated at the beginning of the Nigerian-Biafra civil war.

Prior to the program the young people of the church will canvass the community soliciting contributions to aid the starving children of Biafra, the innocent victims of the tragic 21-month old civil war.

All members of the congregation and others interested may attend and participate in a covered dish supper after the program.

Conduct Circus At Grant Morse

SAUGERTIES
The circus arrived at the Grant D. Morse School in the form of an assembly program presented for the primary children by the second grade class of Mrs. Marilyn Putnam.

Barker, Ronnie Beiter, opened the show, and introduced the Ringmaster, Dawn Oathout.

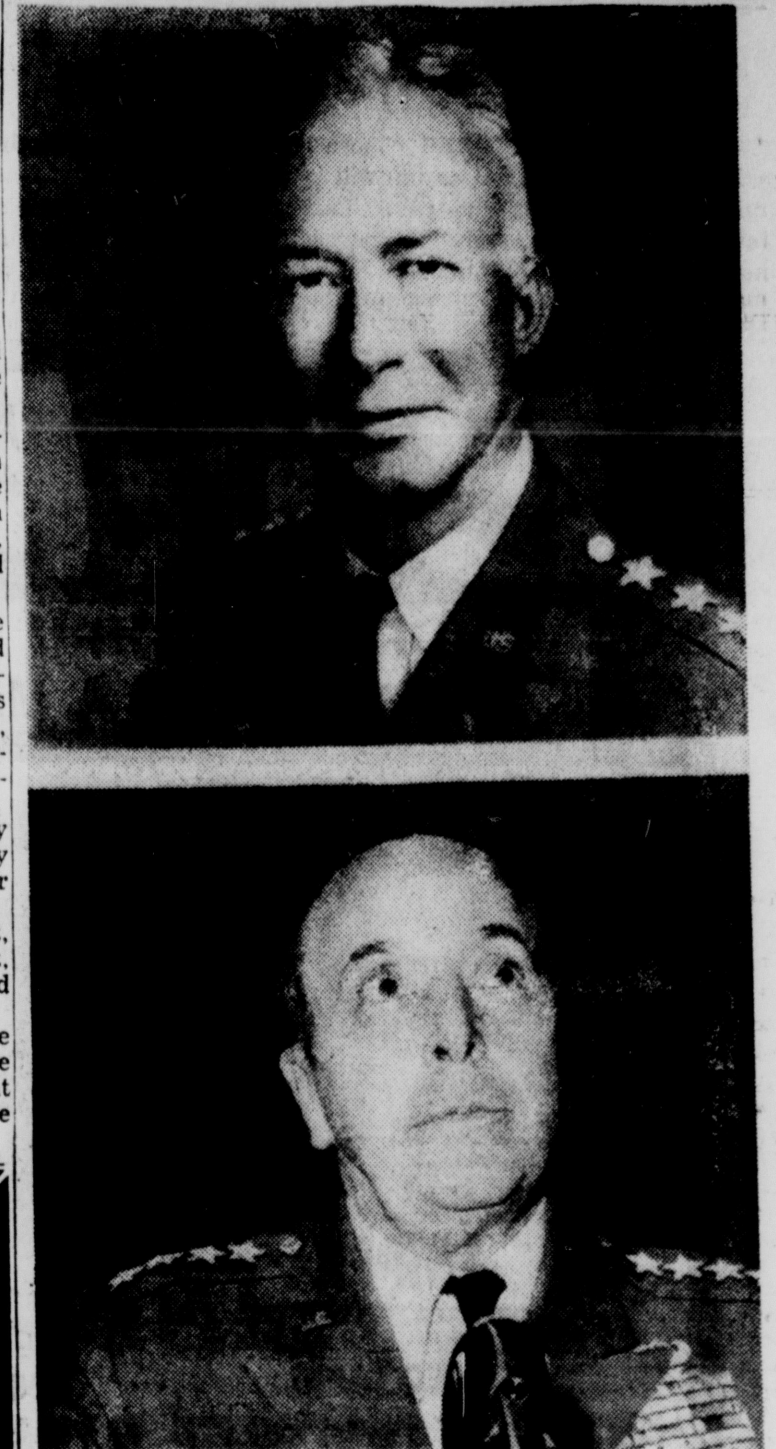

A ferocious lion act was performed by Kurt Boyer when he tamed his lions, Felice Betaudier, Donna Bruyn, Susan Corrado, Dennis Dempsey, Cheryl Lezette, Debbie Pilz and George Wynkoop.

The busy roustabouts were Mark Elson, Kirk Nethaway and Carl Shader. This act was followed by the tightrope walkers Eric Leard, Rickie Osborn, Warren Overbaugh, Judy Verettes, Robert Wood and Walde-mar Zahn.

The circus was interrupted by a funny little car driven by Todd Joers and Christopher Miller.

The clowns were Walt Crist, Wendy Doyle, Susan Millet, Maria Stenson, Mark Valk and Chris Wilson.

An added attraction was the side show, Jimmy Bach was the Tall Man, Kathy Quick, the Fat Lady and Monica Gabel, the Snake Queen.

Fewer Comin' From Dublin—And Few Native-Borns in the Erin Parades

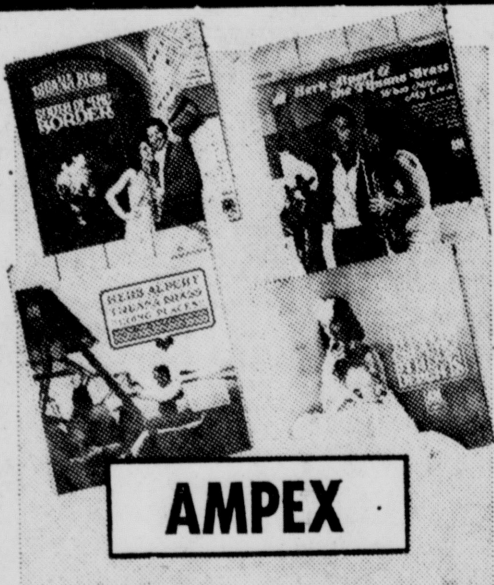

By AP NEWSFEATURES

If the Irish United States immigration pattern of the past few years continues, there'll be nary a native-born Irishman to march in any U.S. St. Patrick's Day parades. And those few U.S. citizens and employment skills, became fully effective. Since, only 72 persons have been issued visas in Dublin to immigrate here.

The decline in Irish immigration has so appalled Rep. William F. Ryan (Manhattan) that he has proposed an amendment to the Immigration and Naturalization Act that would allow immigrations totals from each nation to be increased to levels approaching 34 of the old quota. "My concern is with the near eclipse of immigration from many nations States. In many cases transportation was cheaper to Canada. These early Irish immigrants, mostly small farmers and artisans, were not rich but were independent, with enough resources to guarantee a fair start in the states. Then came the potato famine. Disraeli, describing the 1845-46 Irish potato famine, called it "the single root which changed the history of the world." Where as before a large number of Ireland's sons and daughters had left the green isle because of enterprise and adventure, now the choice lay between starvation, pestilence and immigration. And immigrate they did. In the year 1847 alone 105,000 Irish immigrated to the United States. By 1880 the Irish constituted 40 per cent of the U.S. foreign-born population.

The following awards were presented: James Hadsel, Tim-Donald Van Buren, Thomas and James Cameron were given a one-year pin and a Thank certificate. Daniel Deyo was a two-year pin was awarded to Thomas Krause. A two-year pin was awarded to Thomas Krause. A two-year pin was awarded to Thomas Krause.

Activity Badges are: Ahltole to Den Chiefs Ameous Lucas, a one-year pin and a Thank certificate. Daniel Deyo was a two-year pin was awarded to Thomas Krause. A two-year pin was awarded to Thomas Krause.

chiefs, were unable to attend. A skit "Operation A," which explains how to operate on a boy in order to make him a good Cub Scout, was presented by Den 2. Participants were Ralph Mitchell, Peter Fisher, Robert Bartlett, Timothy Williams, James Hadsel, Thomas Joy and Harry Joy. The Den Mother is Mrs. Anne Deyo. Two new Bobcats Glen Wells and James Beekner were welcomed into Pack 9.

Webelos leader Joseph Karafa held an induction ceremony for Donald Van Buren and Harry Joy. They were given their Boy Scout handbook and Webelos Den Badge by the Denner Thomas Krause and Assistant Denner Thomas Wolf.

An impressive graduation ceremony for Webelos scouts Russell Mottsey, Lance Cooper, and Jeffrey Lucas was given by Joseph Karafa. An arrow of light ceremonial board was used and seven candles lit by Denner Thomas Krause represented wisdom, courage, self control, justice, faith, hope and love explained by the Webelos leader. They were then given their graduation certificates. William Daum, Scoutmaster of Troop 9, was introduced and welcomed the Webelos and their parents.

Cub Scout Pack 16 from Stone Ridge recently held its annual Blue-Gold banquet at the Marletown Elementary School. Two hundred sixty-three attended. Guests were the Rev. and Mrs. Clementz of Marletown Reformed Church, Sponsoring Institution of Troop 16; the Rev. and Mrs. Randall and family and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilson. Neighborhood Commissioner of Troop 16, Den Leader Joe Salvatore was Guest Speaker.

Awards given were Webelos to Edward Dedrick and Louis Hutter, a transferee from Pack 17, Wolf Badge to Gordon Van Demark and Henry Kingsbury. Gold Arrow Point to Henry Kingsbury and New Cubs Donald Countryman, Dean Shields, Lance Shields, Theodore Stank and John Steenburgh received their Bobcat Pins. Den Mothers Barbara Buswell, Jean Campola, Eunice Krom, Betty Styles, Louise Visconti, along with assistants Gisele Kingsbury, Elsie Locke and the Mothers of each Cub provided the food for the banquet. Officers of Pack 16 are Richard Davenport, institutional representative; Charles Dedrick Jr., advancement committeeman; Albert Hoffman, Cubmaster; Joseph Salvatore, Webelos den leader; Richard Stauble, head chairman of the Pack Committeemen; George Vansickle, activity committeeman; Fran Dedrick, secretary, and Marilyn Arra, treasurer.

Pack 16 will hold its next meeting at the Legion Hall in Stone Ridge March 28 and will follow the March Theme of Indian Lore.

SAUGERTIES

The annual Father-Son Dinner for Troop 130, was held at the Trinity Recreation Hall in Saugerties, Feb. 26.

Special awards were given during the festivities including Scout of the Year, Thomas Cole; Hiking Merit Badges, Dana Holmquist, Jerel Gade, Warren Hornbeck, Thomas Cole and Edward Hilje.

The scouts and their dads enjoyed three movies — travelogues of Canada and a movie based on rescue breathing.

Scout leader John Gade, Assistants Richard Shultis, Robert Gardner and George Trumppour greeted distinguished guests John Carlson, District Commissioner, William Poythrus, Former Neighborhood Commissioner and John Vliet, Mohican Trails District Executive.

One of the past activities of Troop 130 was a week-end at Camp Tri-Mount Feb. 1 and 2. The scouts and their leaders played hockey, went sledding, ice fishing and ice skating. The highlight of the trip was a five mile hike in the snow.

Boys participating were: Duane Snyder, Jerel Gade, Jimmy Myers, John Magee, Mark Tobiansen, Joe Juliano, Emmett Trumppour, Mark Warfel, Larry Myers, Ed Hilje, John Hilje, Dana Holmquist, David Holmquist, Jeff Gardner, Mark Whitaker, Charles Walker, Rich Stampfle and Coy Henderson. ## Paltz Drug Council Eyed

By DENNIS R. CARO

steps towards the formation of a Narcotics Guidance Council under the State's new Duryea Law, similar to the one already in existence in the Town of Wawarsing.

Moriello said it doesn't matter whether the area's narcotics problems are due to the State University students on the New Paltz campus or local people. "It's a community problem," he noted, "whatever the reason and we have to do something about it."

He said the Town Board would try to send a representative to the Wawarsing Council's meeting with Robert Dolins, Assistant Commissioner with the State Narcotics Control Commission in Ellenville this Friday afternoon to gain more information.

If this is not feasible, he said he would contact Wawarsing Supervisor Frank W. Harkin for further details.

In other action, the Board appointed David E. Graham of Old Route 32 as the Town's first full time constable, effective April 1. Graham, 45, has been a professional police officer for the past 20 years, working for the New York City force out of the 24th precinct.

He will be on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and is expected to work in cooperation with the New Paltz village police department as well as coordinating the Town's current part time constables.

The Board appointed Dr. David Meches to the Town Planning Board to fill the unexpired term of Fred Dressel, who was appointed to the Town Planning Board to fill the unexpired term of Fred Dressel, who was appointed to Town Board of Assessors.

The Board will schedule a meeting with the Planning Board to discuss the possibility of making the building inspector's job full time in preparation for the adoption of the proposed new zoning ordinance and the mammoth growth the area is expected to undergo in the next ten years.

The board also will assess the need for a fire hydrant on Duzine Road, in acknowledgment of a 21-signature petition from residents of that area; make provisions for a street light in front of the entrance to New Paltz High School and obtain an estimate from Central Hudson on the cost of lighting Route 299 from the Thruway entrance to the Village line.

Remember, it's the net price that counts — and everything works in your favor at De Witt: Volume buying from the factory and volume selling of both new and used cars combine to put us in a position to give you the No. 1 value — whatever car you choose, on any day, in any month, during any season of the year. See De Witt first or see De Witt last — just be sure to see De Witt before you decide.

★ HUGE SELECTIONS

You can depend on De Witt to make it easy for you to decide — because you'll see a cavalcade of cars at De Witt, not a gallery of pictures. De Witt has a spectacular standing stock of brand new Cadillac, Oldsmobile and late model used cars that spans the whole spectrum of series, body styles, colors, accessories and equipment options. The chances are excellent that exactly the car you want is in De Witt's inventory right now — but if it's necessary to place a factory order, you'll still have the advantage of De Witt's delivery expediting service. There's no faster way to get what you want than to let De Witt get it for you.

★ SUPREME SERVICE

You can depend on De Witt to keep your confidence and safeguard your satisfaction in the matter that may well be the most important of all: Service. Your new Cadillac or Oldsmobile is covered, of course, by one of the most complete and comprehensive warranties in the industry. But it takes the skill of De Witt's master mechanics and the precision of De Witt's advanced automotive maintenance equipment to give that protection maximum meaning through preventive care and professional expertise of the highest order. It all adds up to one clear conclusion: "When you depend on De Witt—you've found the formula for total value."

Friends of Historic Kingston Seek to Preserve Early House

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON — In continuing efforts to preserve Kingston's historic heritage, an appeal has been made to the Urban Renewal Agency to save an early dwelling in the Old Stockade, Uptown.

Friends of Historic Kingston in a letter to James G. Connors, urban renewal director, made an impassioned plea for preservation of the Dr. Luke Kiersted house at 95 John Street. The uptown urban renewal plan called for elimination of the corner of Green and John Streets to make way for a sweeping curve from Lucas Avenue into John Street.

Connors said Wednesday that the Historic groups proposal is under study by his office. In a communication with Friends of Historic Kingston, he assured the group that "every effort will be made to aid" them in this matter.

Detailing reasons for retaining the building, D. William Daron, president of Friends of Historic Kingston, noted that in addition to being one of the oldest frame houses in the city, the Dr. Kiersted house is an outstanding example of late 18th Century architecture.

The building, which is now occupied by the Smith Mail Advertising Service and is owned by Urban Renewal, retains many of its original features. The house is unique in its beaded siding and brick lined construction. Also outstanding are the four original fireplaces, two of which are in the basement kitchen. It is this last feature which makes it impossible to move the house to another location for restoration.

The Historic preservation society also stresses the importance of retaining the street pattern and general boundaries of the Old Stockade. The corner

In this particular section a number of houses have been designated as Historic Sites by the Kingston Landmarks Preservation Commission and plaque have been placed on them by the Friends of Historic Kingston for the edification of those who visit the area.

Daron in his letter to the Urban Renewal Agency indicated that if present plans could be altered to retain the house, Friends of Historic Kingston would purchase and preserve the building.

The entire uptown Stockade area has been under study of Paul Malo, assistant professor of architecture at Syracuse University and consultant to the New York state Council of Arts. In a report prepared for the Hudson River Valley Commission which is also concerned with the preservation of the historic area, Malo said:

"The Stockade District is still a remarkably cohesive and viable contained urban area. It wears its historic character with accustomed ease. It is no museum, it is a lively neighborhood. This consultant hopes that the quality of this unique place may be preserved and enhanced by sympathetic restoration."

Aside from the aesthetic reasons for preserving the seat of early Kingston, Daron noted that the area could well become a boon to the economy of the uptown area and all of Kingston. He cited other cities such as Natchez, Philadelphia and Georgetown which have capitalized on their historic background as tourist attractions as well as haven of heritage.

OBJECT OF EFFORTS — The Dr. Luke Kiersted house at 95 John Street is the object of preservation efforts currently underway by the Friends of Historic Kingston. Considered an outstanding example of 18th century architecture within the boundaries of the Old Stockade area, the building is currently occupied by the Smith Mail Advertising Service and is owned by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency. This photo was taken during the recent Junior League of Kingston Historic Buildings Survey. Details include rare beaded siding, original fireplaces, floors, and hardware.

RV Teachers Critical

ACCORD Peter Gaspar, association president, issued a statement in which he said the proposed cuts could result in a $30,000 deficit this year for RVC, due to a loss of funds already in the school's budget and still due from the State.

Calling the proposed cut situation "a crisis," he said "We need an increase, not a decrease, in State aid." Gaspar called on parents to contact their legislative representatives in Albany to express the parents' feelings.

This will be the kickoff meeting of the 1969 campaign and will take place Sunday, March 16, at 7:30 p.m. This year's event will take place at the new Holiday Inn, Washington Ave. Lipsky has successfully combined his career as lawyer and author with service of many Jewish interests. ## UJA Kickoff Set KINGSTON — Eleazer Lipsky, prominent lawyer, author of best selling novels and playwright, will speak at the cocktail party and meeting of the Initial Gifts division of the 1969 Kingston United Jewish Welfare Fund Campaign, Abraham Streifer, general chairman of this year's campaign, has announced.

Lipsky has written a series of successful novels, the most recent of which, The Scientist, was a Book of the Month Club selection. Other novels, The Kiss of Death and The People Against O'Hara, have been made into successful motion pictures starring Richard Widmark and Spencer Tracy respectively. Co-chairman of the 1969 campaign are Charles Ronder and Seymour Werbalowsky. Initial gifts co-chairmen are Richard Kalish and Arthur Motzkin.

Window Removed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A trick window put in the White House presidential bedroom for Lyndon B. Johnson has been removed under orders of President Nixon.

The window, a gift of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, could be operated from the bed. By pushing one button, the window would go up and by pushing another it would go down.

"I had that taken out," Nixon said at a congressional reception Tuesday night. "I was afraid if I pushed the button I would blow the world up."

Single Entity for Two Newspapers Gets Favorable Backing in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 80 members of the House have introduced a bill to allow two newspapers operating under a joint arrangement to be treated as a single entity under antitrust laws.

Rep. Ed Edmondson, D-Okla., one of the sponsors, said the bill would amend the antitrust laws to preserve news and editorial competition. Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, has said he will introduce similar legislation in the Senate.

Edmondson said the Supreme Court's ruling Monday that competing daily papers violate the antitrust laws when they pool profits and use the same advertising departments would stifle competition.

"While our antitrust laws were intended to maintain competition, the application of these laws to the newspaper industry, as exemplified by the Supreme Court's decision in the Tucson newspaper case, will have the opposite result," he told the House.

The measure, known as the Newspaper Preservation Bill, may run into trouble when it comes before the Judiciary antitrust subcommittee for action. There was little support for a similar measure last year, which was opposed by subcommittee chairman Emanuel Celler, D.N.Y.

Edmondson said, "I need not recite to this body the history of newspapers in the past several years. We are all aware of the death of many of the great news voices by papers simply going out of business, or being purchased by a competitor in the same city.

"Each time a newspaper dies, there is one less voice in the marketplace of ideas, and our democratic system of government loses something of its strength."

Lesson in Breaking Down Barriers

BPW Members Hear Panel Examine Problems of Prejudice

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

"Things are changing in the south, even among my own family members," panelist Ginger Malloy told members of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday night. As one of four speakers on the panel "Barrier Breakers," Mrs. Malloy was precise in her outline of conditions prevailing in the southern states and of her own personal experiences regarding race relations.

Others on the panel were equally pointed and informative in their presentations.

Mrs. Evelyn Weiner, a social worker, stressed the fact that barbs against the Jews are appearing in poetry and art carried by leading magazines and newspapers. Mrs. Pat Murphy outlined parochial viewpoints of her fellow Catholics and the consequences suffered; and Mrs. Velma Wright emphasized the feelings of a negro moving into a hostile white community.

These women were all members of a panel patterned after the Panel of American Women, a nationwide program launched by Mrs. Esther Brown in Kansas City. Its purpose is to establish a new interfaith, interracial discussion group that hopes to break down the barriers of prejudice by talking frankly to various gatherings about their own experiences with prejudice and how their race and religion affect their lives.

For its appearance before the Ulster County BPW, Barrier Breakers was moderated by Mrs. Alba Hawkins. Also attending as guests were panel organizers Mrs. Harold Davis and Mrs. Clifford DuMont.

Arrangements for the program were made by Mrs. William Krum, BPW civic participation chairman.

Barrier Breakers is interested in appearing before as many groups in this area as possible. For detailed information organizations may contact the YWCA at 209 Clinton Avenue.

Mrs. Mary Polhemus, UCBPW president, presided at a business meeting after the program.

Mrs. Mary Fisher, membership chairman, introduced the name of Betty Ann Garrison who was voted into membership by the club.

The nominating committee presented the following slate for 1969-70: Virginia Neher, president; Mary Fisher, first vice president; Grace Ede, second vice president; corresponding secretary, Gloria Jean Clark; recording secretary, Chris Gallop; treasurer, Ethel Howard; assistant treasurer, Catherine L. Haines.

Members of the elected nominating committee were: Grace Ede, chairman; Beverly Reese, Bertha Gally, Eleanor Moschowsky, Mae Evans, JoAnne Byrnes and Dorothy A. Narel.

Members of the club will vote on new officers at the April meeting. Nominations will be accepted from the floor in accordance with the club's by-laws.

A report on a special fund raising project for the benefit of the BPW Scholarship Fund was made by Ellen Donovan, scholarship chairman.

In other BPW news, President Polhemus reports a state convention in Rochester over the Memorial Day weekend. Delegates will be elected.

On July 16 at the national BPW convention in St. Louis, members will launch the Federation's Golden Anniversary Year. To all surviving 1919'ers, the delegates plus all members who joined a club during or before 1919, the National Federation will award Golden Anniversary certificates. All of these certificates will be sent to the state presidents who will arrange for presentation as part of the July 16 celebrations.

The next meeting of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club will be held on Tuesday, April 8 at 6:30 p.m. in the Kirkland Hotel, Kingston.

REUNION COMMITTEE of Kingston High School, Class of 1959, held its second meeting Monday, March 10 at Britts Community Room, Kingston. Serving on the committee are (L-R) Dan Terpening, treasurer; Mrs. Emory LeMay, correspondence chairman; Mrs. Stanley Burhans, publicity chairman; Richard Mathews, program and entertainment chairman. James Every, not pictured, was appointed co-treasurer. The next meeting will be held at Britts on Wednesday, March 19 at 7 p. m. All KHS Class of '59 members are urged to attend. (Freeman photo by Krum).

Rebekah District Meeting Scheduled Here in April

The regular annual Rebekah District meeting will take place Saturday, April 12, at 2 p. m. at Colonial Rebekah Lodge, Kingston, at which time a district deputy president will be recommended.

The Past Noble Grand Association will meet Saturday, April 19, at 6 p. m. at the IOOF Hall in West Saugerties. A dinner will be served.

Erna Kohler of the Queen of the Catskill Mountain Rebekah Lodge No. 36 was elected delegate to the Rebekah Assembly at Parkway Inn, Niagara Falls, May 18-22. Anny Yakin was elected proxy.

Donations were given to VFW Loyalty Project and the Homes Endowment Fund.

Social games will be held at the next meeting which is scheduled for Thursday, Mar. 20, Noble Grand Lillian Compitello urges a large attendance.

Refreshments were served by Ann Fastert, Laura Schoonmaker and Elizabeth Hommel. Committee for the next meeting will be Ethel Meyer, Ida May Mower and Ida Mower.

Members of the Ontario Central School's American Field Service Club entertained students for six foreign countries on March 1 and 2. The teenage guests, all part of the American Field Service International Scholarship Program, are spending this year as members of American families and are attending local high schools in Ulster and Dutchess Counties.

Herbert Wurm of Austria and Gertraude Koch of Germany are attending Arlington High School, Winsome Edgar of New Zealand is attending Millbrook High School, Olivia Dunn of Ecuador, Poughkeepsie High School, Renee Bodt of the Netherlands, Red Hook High School, and Lars Eriksson of Sweden is attending Rhinebeck High School.

Efren Sotto, AFS student from the Philippines this year, is a member of the Richard M. Peekema family in Woodstock and a senior at Ontario Central School.

Activities planned for the teenage visitors included an evening party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peekema and a luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. Allen.

The American Field Service, a non-profit, non-sectarian organization, through its international scholarship programs, endeavors to promote understanding among people of many nations by providing new experiences in the living and learning of teenage students.

Miss Barbara Narel, OCS senior, is president of Ontario's American Field Service Club.

Expectant Parents Class to Start Here

A parents class for expectant mothers and fathers will begin Tuesday March 25 at 7 p. m. at the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue. The six-week course will be taught by an accredited nurse, Mrs. George Hughes, through the services of the Ulster County Public Health Dept.

The classes which have received the endorsement of the Ulster County Medical Society, prepare the couples for their new role as parents. Teaching techniques used will be discussions, films, demonstrations and a tour of the two local hospitals, where the parents become acquainted with the obstetrical facilities.

Topics covered will be bathing and feeding the baby, hygiene, anatomy, labor delivery, nutrition, discomforts of pregnancy and many others. There is a small fee to register but membership is not required. Ask your doctor for a flyer or call the YWCA for information.

The YWCA is a member of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Former Kingston Residents Honored At Open House
Miss Margaret Bowen and Mrs. John Bowen, formerly of Kingston, were honored Sunday, Mar. 2, at an open house at their home, 206 Robertson Street, Tullahoma, Tenn.

Miss Bowen founded Ulster County Division, Licensed Practical Nurses of New York Inc., on March 23, 1950, and served as its president for eight years, as well as third vice president of New York State group, and state director for three years. She served also on advisory board of Kingston School of Practical Nurses.

Hosts for the open house were nieces and nephews, Mr. and Mrs. George Crick of Gallatin, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mangrum and Mrs. James Hyde of Tullahoma.

Approximately 60 guests attended the gala.

Young People's Studio, the art program for children, in Woodstock, has announced that registration is now open for the next unit of instruction in its spring program. The unit, consisting of three consecutive classes, begins March 21 and 22, a d will be devoted to painting projects.

Located at 3 Tinker Street, Woodstock, Young People's Studio has been bringing a full, comprehensive program in all the major areas of visual arts to five to seven and eight to 12 years olds, for the past two years.

All of the guidance and professional instruction continues to be presented by Mrs. Jeanne Dorfman. The program itself has been developed through the collaboration of Mrs. Dorfman with her husband, Bruce Dorfman, the well-known artist and teacher.

The eight to 12 age group meets either Fridays, 3:40 to 6 p. m. or Saturdays 9:40 a. m. to noon. The five to seven age group meets Saturdays 1:40 to 4 p. m.

For further information contact Mrs. Dorfman at Woodstock.

Supper hostesses were the Mes. S. James Matthews, James K. Murphy, Charlotte A. Peck, and John M. Schleele.

Recitation of the American's Creed concluded the evening.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: Maybe baby doctors will think I'm crazy, but I have two young boys, who, as any mother knows, are always fighting.

A good healthy argument was all right, but when they hit each other, that was different story. But that's the way it always seemed to end up.

So I purchased two inexpensive pillows and gave each boy a pillow with his brother's name on it, and told them that whenever they get angry at their brother, instead of hitting each other, to punch the pillow.

Now when they have an argument, they run for the pillow and punch it like mad, and say whatever they meant to the pillow.

This way each one gets the anger out of his system and there's no punishment for hitting his brother.

Mrs. A. H.

Dear Heloise:

We have a cat who sheds. Cat hair just couldn't be removed from my black dress and blouse, so I threw them into my drier and turned the dial to "air."

When I removed them, all the lint was gone. Did I discover something, or is this an old story?

B. King

Shug, you figured out the easy way. Thanks for the idea.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I've found the perfect innersole to replace a worn one. I use a piece of self-adhesive quilted shelf paper. Just cut it to fit the shape of your shoes.

It's pretty, and, oh, so soft! I thought some, Ann. You're right, it's great.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

From a worn-out raincoat, I cut a double piece slightly larger than a school book. I stitched up three sides, put in a drawstring and now have a school bag for my books when it rains.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Gifts to Godparents

Dear Mrs. Post: If godparents bring their godchild a Christmas gift, are the parents of the child obliged to return the gesture with a gift to them? Vivian.

Dear Vivian: Since godparents are generally very close friends or relatives, parents often exchange gifts with them in any case. However, when the couples have lost touch with each other, even though the godparent may continue to send the child a remembrance, there is no obligation for the parents to reciprocate.

Man Follows Wife at Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: At a wedding, the lady goes up to her seat with the usher and the man she comes with doesn't know what to do. He tags along like a dog. Yet he has to pay all the tab every day. — Mrs. K.

Dear Mrs. K: I can't tell you the reason for it but it is traditional and customary for the ushers at a wedding to escort every woman guest to her seat. Since men don't escort other men (unless they are very old or infirm) there is nothing for a husband to do but follow his wife and the usher. He isn't tagging "along like a dog" — he is simply "doing the right thing."

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen and its answer will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Kingston Freeman, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Special for St. Pat's Day

THICK CUT CORNED BEEF

Sure 'n begorra, if it isn't thick cut corned beef for St. Pat's Day dinner just the way you would like it. Now corned beef is tender enough to slice thicker than usual because it's Swift's Premium Corned Beef for Oven Roasting. And there's no blarney about it. It's the corned beef you don't have to boil.

In fact, it's the corned beef that becomes tender as it roasts in an open pan in a slow oven. The traditional long hours of simmering are no longer necessary. This means that none of the flavor is lost in the cooking water. And speaking of flavors, now there are two, mild or garlic and spice.

Accent the corned beef with mustard-seasoned bacon corn muffins and carrot slices. Mock Irish coffee using instant coffee, an extract for flavoring and whipped topping adds a light touch to this holiday meal.

Zippy Bacon Corn Muffins

Yield: 12 Muffins
1/2 pound bacon
12 ounce package corn muffin mix
2 tablespoons prepared mustard

Pan-fry bacon in medium skillet over low heat until crisp. Drain on absorbent paper. Crumble. Prepare muffins according to package directions. Add mustard and bacon. Fill well-greased muffin tins half full. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 15 minutes or until golden brown. Serve with Corned Beef for Oven Roasting.

Corned Beef Tarts for March 17th

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

Young people like foods that can be eaten without sitting down or requiring utensils. That's why party foods should be the kind you pick up, eat and return for more. Such as, for example, these St. Paddy corned beef tarts for St. Patrick's Day celebration.

ST. PADDY PATS

3 cups sifted flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
3/4 cup corn oil
4 1/2 tablespoons cold water

Mix flour and salt in mixing bowl. Blend in corn oil with a fork. Sprinkle all water on top; mix well. Press firmly into ball with hands. If dough is slightly dry; mix in one to two tablespoons more corn oil. Wipe tabletop with damp cloth and place on it a piece of aluminum foil 12 inches square. Divide pastry in half and work with half at a time. Place half of dough on foil. Flatten slightly, cover with waxed paper and roll out with rolling pin to cover foil completely. With knife, mark off 25 (2 1/4 inch) squares. Cut through dough and foil with scissors. Turn up sides and pinch corner to form a 1x2-inch square shell 1/2-inch deep. Fill shells and place on baking sheet. Bake in 450-degree (hot) oven 20 to 25 minutes or until pastries are lightly browned around edges. Top each tart with a dab of chili sauce while hot, if you like. Makes 25 tarts.

FILLING: Mix 1 (15 1/2-oz.) can corned beef hash with 1/4-envelope golden onion soup mix. Add 1 to 2 tablespoons water, as necessary, to adjust mounding slightly.

Recipes for Lenten Menus

It's the mid-way mark of the Lenten Season and 'round about this time appetites are craving some new tastes. Here are a few recipes, destined to tickle sleeping taste buds.

LENTEN SCRAMBLED EGGS

4 Swift's Brookfield eggs
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
2 tablespoons finely chopped green onion tops
1/4 cup dairy sour cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon marjoram
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup crumbled, cooked bacon (optional)

Melt butter in skillet. Add mushrooms and green onions. Saute until tender. Break eggs into a bowl. Add sour cream and seasonings. Beat until well blended. Pour egg-sour cream mixture into skillet. Cook over low heat until eggs are creamy, stirring occasionally. When eggs are set, serve immediately on toasted bread or on English muffins as fried egg sandwiches. Yield: four servings.

CHEESE-RICE SOUFFLE

1 cup shredded Swift's Brookfield Cheddar cheese
1/2 stick (1/4 cup) butter
1/4 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup milk
6 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups cooked rice

Melt butter in a 1-quart saucepan over medium heat. Add flour and seasonings. Stir until smooth, and cook three minutes. Remove from heat. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly. Return to heat. Cook until thickened. Add shredded cheese, stir until melted and well blended. Beat

Aero Lake Bombs Premiere 95-63, for Y Title

KINGSTON defense which has limited opponents to only 67.8 points a game was as effective as ever, and the Aero cagers played three points over their seasonal offensive average of 92.2 points. Uhl was limited to a YMCA career low of seven points before leaving the game with 3:30 left in the third quarter after pulling a tendon in his right leg.

It wasn't one of Jumpin' Joe's better nights. Ron Thomas and Len Beck did a fine job of guarding the big bomber. Aero Lake led by 12 points when Joe exited but had assumed control of the game and the final outcome did not appear in doubt.

The defeat was a costly one for Premiere which could have created a triple tie with Aero Lake and Ulster Plaza Essos with a victory. As it turned out, the losers were shunted to third place in the final standings.

Manager Jim Massa got a at Ulster Community College, picked up in the second quarter. Joe Uhl scored only one field goal in a basketball game? No, when Aero outscored Premiere, 30-23, to take a 46-34 lead into the locker room.

Nine points by DuBois helped give Premiere a 21-18 edge in the third quarter and send the teams into the final session with Aero Lake leading 64-55.

Premiere suffered a cataclysmic collapse after Uhl's departure which had the Y rail-birds buzzing about an obvious for Bill DuBois, assistant coach the Lakers. The shooting tempo ble, I never saw anything like it." All three Pittsburgh goals, by Ken Schinkel, Dunc McCallum and Paul Andrea, came on power plays.

Bruce Gamble registered his third shutout of the season for Toronto and won easily as Mike Walton, Ricky Ley, Paul Henderson and Bob Pulford scored for the Leafs. It was Ley's first NHL goal.

Aero Lake started with a man-to-man defense and as usual, it was extremely effective on the cramped Y court which gives little room for mobility.

Obviously elated, Coach Massa of the Lakers attributed the decisive victory to a well balanced attack and a strong defense.

"We used the same formula that has paid off for us all season long," said Massa. "We had good balance and team play."

Unsold Steals One For the Bullets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS ton Celtics dropped Philadelphia three games behind the Bullets with a 126-117 victory in another crucial NBA game Wednesday night.

Baltimore holds a four-game margin in the all-important loss column over Philadelphia and five over New York. The Bullets have seven games remaining while Philadelphia and New York have five left.

The rugged 6-foot-8 Unseld, stole a rebound from an unsuspecting Willis Reed of New York with four seconds remaining—was fouled—and calmly dropped in both free throws for a 111-110 victory over the Knicks. San Francisco whipped Los Angeles four games behind the leaders, 97-85 and Seattle defeated San Diego 125-112.

In the American basketball Association, Kentucky beat New York 106-98. New Orleans nipped Miami 107-102. Dallas walloped Minnesota 122-106 and Los Angeles upended Denver 125-122 in overtime.

Boston got 30 points from Sam Jones and 29 from Bailey Howland while Emmette Bryant chipped in with 62 assists in the tightly fought contest.

Philadelphia got to within 115-111 with 3:20 left but Howland poured in four points and the Celtics were home free. Chet Walker had 26 points for the 76ers.

The Atlanta Hawks came from 14 points down in the second quarter to outscore the Bulls 25-8 and lead at halftime 51-48. The Hawks pulled away steadily after that. Lou Hudson and Joe Caldwell had 22 points for Atlanta while Bob Boozer and Jerry Sloan had 18 each for Chicago.

San Francisco, in tripping Los Angeles, clinched a berth in the playoffs. The Warriors outscored the Lakers 32-18 in the fourth period in coming from behind.

SONG AND DANCE MAN — As a song and dance man, New York Yankee's first baseman Jim Pepitone makes a good ball player as he clown in the dugout at spring training camp. With Mickey Mantle retired, the Bombers are for the first time in decades without a star figure. Pepi, returning this season to the first base position he vacated for Mantle a few years ago, has never reached the heights expected of him. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Ted's Theory: Win Later

(By THE ASSOCIATE PRESS) mer by rookie pitcher Gary Gentry and a three-run shot by Art Shamsky.

Ted Williams still is winless as a manager but it could be that the Thumper is only trying a new approach with his young Washington Senators.

After the Senators had lost Wednesday for the sixth straight time this spring, 5-4, in 10 innings to the Los Angeles Dodgers, Williams calmly explained his theory:

"What did we do last year in the spring? Won all of them, didn't they. And then finished last in the regular season."

Actually, the Senators didn't win them all, but their 17-8 mark in last year's exhibition season was the best in the majors. But when the regular season began, the Senators returned to form and finished last in the American League, 37½ games behind the champion Detroit Tigers.

"I want to look at the kids as long as I can," Williams said. "We'll do better when we get some of our regulars."

Wednesday, Williams' youngsters almost broke the string but were foiled by Willie Davis' run-scoring single in the 10th inning.

Rico Carty, sidelined all of last year with a case of tuberculosis, sparked Atlanta's 5-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

Carty rapped a single and two sacrifice flies, knocking in three runs as the Yanks lost for the first time in five games. Mike Lum added three hits and scored four runs for the Braves. Bill Robinson had a homer for New York.

In other Florida exhibitions, Cincinnati nipped Kansas City 4-3. Minnesota rapped the Chicago White Sox, 5-3. Philadelphia stopped Boston 7-5. Baltimore shut out Houston 4-0, the New York Mets pounded Detroit 12-0. St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 6-3 and Montreal blasted the Yankees' B squad, 9-4.

In Arizona, Cleveland stopped Seattle 10-7, the Chicago Cubs downed San Francisco 8-6. Oakland beat California 5-2 and San Diego dropped Seattle's B team, 8-2.

Lee May cracked a third-inning homer and the Reds held off a ninth-inning rally by the Royals, which fell a run short.

Tony Oliva, the Twins' designated pinch hitter, slammed a two-run home run in the seventh inning, breaking a 3-3 tie. Gail Hopkins had a homer for the White Sox.

The Phillies took advantage of Red Sox errors and scored four unearned runs. Tony Conigliaro dropped a fly ball in the seventh inning, leading to three runs. The Phils' Larry Hise slammed his third home run of the spring and added a run-scoring double.

The Orioles got three-hit pitching from Mike Cuellar. Dick Hall and Pete Richert in downing the Astros. Cuellar limped his ex-mates to two hits in five innings. Frank Robinson and Dave Johnson each knocked in a run and had two hits apiece for the winners.

The Mets pounded three homers, including a grand slam-

Coleman Basketball Tourney Announced

KINGSTON Six teams have entered the annual John A. Coleman High school basketball tournament which will be played Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Coleman gym on Hurley avenue.

The six entries are St. Francis of Phenicia and five Kingston teams — St. Catherine Laboure, St. Joseph's, St. Mary's, St. Peter's and Immaculate Conception. The players are all of high school age.

Opening round action starts Friday, with St. Mary's playing St. Joseph's at 7:30 p.m., followed by Immaculate Conception and St. Peter's at 8:30 p.m.

The semi-finals are scheduled Saturday evening when St. this group.

Catherine's plays the winner of the St. Mary's-St. Joseph's contest at 7:30 p.m. St. Francis takes on the winner of the Immaculate Conception-St. Peter's first round contest at 8:30 p.m.

The championship contest is scheduled Sunday at 8:30 p.m. and will be preceded by the consolation between the semifinal losers at 7:30 p.m.

This is the second annual tournament for high school boys sponsored by the Coleman school Key Club. The club has also sponsored a basketball tournament for elementary school boys during the Christmas vacation for the past two years.

Proceeds from these events, as well as all activities sponsored by the Key Club go toward funding the school and community service projects of this group.

Stockin Director At Wiltwyck Pool

KINGSTON Wiltwyck Country Club today announced the appointment of Arthur (Art) Stockin, head swimming coach at State University College New Paltz as Pool Director at Wiltwyck this season.

The Wiltwyck pool will open officially on Memorial Day weekend, Mrs. George C. (Dottie) Rifenburg, chairman of the club's pool committee, announced. The pool also will be open on the weekends of June 7-8 and June 14-15 and daily thereafter.

Stockin, who has been varsity and freshman swim coach at New Paltz for the past three years, is regarded as one of the leading mentors in the area. In addition to his coaching duties, he has been an instructor of physical education, including all courses in swimming and water safety at the college.

Stockin did his graduate work at East Stroudsburg State College (Pa.) after undergraduate pool director at the Kerhonkson public pool and coach of the Kerhonkswim Club.

The New Paltz coach has attended the nationally recognized College Swim Forum at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the past three Christmas vacations, attending the lectures and films at the forum. He also was an observant guest of Olympic swimming coach George Haines and the Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club.

Stockin has coached college baseball, track and cross country on the high school level and junior high basketball. He also taught in elementary schools at Marlinton and Scranton, Pa., for three years.

Among the many organizations with which Stockin is affiliated are: American Swimming Coaches Association, National Interscholastic Swimming Coaches Association, vice president Mid-Hudson Chapter New York State Association of Certified Swimming Officials and the water safety instructor, American Red Cross.

Rangers' Old Trick Clicks

By United Press International If it's possible to tease an opponent in the rough game of hockey, then the New York Rangers are guilty of it against Pittsburgh this season.

On four occasions, New York has allowed the Penguins to take a 2-0 lead before upsetting their hopes with a victory. The teams have met only six times.

The latest tease occurred Wednesday night when Pittsburgh, still hoping for a playoff berth, held leads of 2-0 and 3-1 before the Rangers rallied for a 4-3 victory on third-period goals by Bob Nevin and Vic Hadfield.

"It was like pulling teeth but we got the two points," Ranger general manager coach Emile Francis said after the game. "Our persistence paid off, you might say dogged persistence. If they're trying to prove they can come back, they proved it to me."

The victory gave the third-place Rangers a four-point edge over Detroit in the East Division of the National Hockey League. The fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs closed to within two points of Detroit by beating the Los Angeles Kings 4-0 and in the only other game played Wednesday night Oakland defeated Chicago 4-1.

Pittsburgh coach Red Sullivan claimed that the puck had crossed the blue line for an offside just before Hadfield scored the winner at 12:13 of the final period.

"It was the biggest steal since Brink's robbery," said Sullivan, who is in danger of losing his job as the Penguins flounder in last place in the West. "The linesman should have called an offside. It was terrible. Terrible, I never saw anything like it."

All three Pittsburgh goals, by Ken Schinkel, Dunc McCallum and Paul Andrea, came on power plays.

Bruce Gamble registered his third shutout of the season for Toronto and won easily as Mike Walton, Ricky Ley, Paul Henderson and Bob Pulford scored for the Leafs. It was Ley's first NHL goal.

B&S Keglers Cop $150 Prize

KINGSTON
 Herb Petersen's return to Great Barrington's Rotary Club tournament at Cove Lanes again proved highly successful. Last year, Petersen compiled a record shattering 2123 all-events in the same tournament. This year, he anchored B&S Dress squad to first prize of $150 with top series of 2940 in the net division of the team competition.

Petersen, the only local kegler over "600", strung games of 186, 242 and 210 for 638. The team had a 1021 middle set. Other scores were: Gary Barnes 594, Bob (T) Smith 567, Jim Amendola 591, Jack Ferraro 550.

TIANO'S TOPICS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
 Freeman Sports Editor

Judging by the response to a recent column on the need for swimming facilities within the Kingston Consolidated school System, there is substantial public support for the proposal.

No column of recent vintage created so much public reaction, so quickly by telephone, letters and conversation with the man and woman on the street.

The first telephone call came from Marlboro where the central school district has a new pool, but where there appears to be a misunderstanding on the function of a pool within the school system.

The Kingston Consolidated Board of Education must surely be aware of this kind of sentiment, if they maintain lines of communication with their constituents.

ONE OF THE most significant letters came from Harry and Caroline Seitz, who pledged their wholehearted support to a public pool, preferably an indoor facility for year round use and, they add, "we wonder how to arouse people to support such an idea. Many, many youngsters in our city do not know how to swim."

"We have known for many years that some of the mid-western states place being able to swim as one of the requirements for graduation from high school," they said. "In our own family, we have made learning to swim and drive a car as essential as learning to read, the 'new math' or science, for a basic education in this latter half of the 20th Century."

"We are also amazed that not one of the several new schools in our consolidated district included a swimming pool. Kingston always seems to be the last on the list for progress."

"Our support is behind the YMCA's new building fund," they closed. "Adults who are concerned about children and young people could help with a few extra donations in that area. We are sure there will be plenty of youngsters attending pool classes and recreational swims and only wish we could find two Olympic size pools for us instead of just the one."

THE MAIL BAG also brought an amusing letter from the C. Lincoln Christensen of Hurley regarding a recent golf safari to the Republic of Haiti. Their experiences were rather unique and worth repeating, at least for benefit of the vast legion of un-rich duffers who have to suffer in silence through our New York blizzards, waiting for the first birdie of spring.

It all happened on the Petionville, Haiti, course which is maintained by the American Embassy.

"We played Sunday morning and Tuesday afternoon and the only American we met there (in the clubhouse) referred to the layout as the Cardiac Club. We soon discovered why," writes Mrs. Christensen.

"It would be hard to imagine hills more rugged, steeper and longer from top to bottom. Otherwise, it's a short course — only 4460 yards for 18 holes."

"Both times we played, we were the only ones playing, but we were not alone. We had a boy for each of the bags, the boy who showed us the way and kept score, the boys who were friends of the caddies who went along and 'spelled' the caddies from time to time, the boy who went on ahead and put a flagstick in the hole we were approaching, the boys who followed us and brought along the flagstick from the hole we'd just played."

"Oh, yes, there were still more boys. At the fifth hole, two more boys who had brought out drinks for our enjoyment."

"Talk about Arni's Army," observed Linc as he surveyed our entourage wending its way up the hill in front of us.

"THE COURSE WASN'T in bad shape except that the greens were pretty coarse grass. As it turned out, it was probably just as well they hadn't put too much into the care of the greens because, more often than not, the forward boy had to chase a cow off the green before we could play up. And in some cases where the greens were damp, the foot marks went right in."

"Roosters and hens were scratching around everywhere, too, and it was Linc's concern that there was no local rule covering what you do if your ball lands in the all-too-frequent 'fertilizer.'"

"It's understandable, as you are probably thinking, that the course is never overcrowded."

In our set, we'd have to pass off the Christensen experience as strictly barnyard golf.

The .300 Hitter - Fading Species in A.L.

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

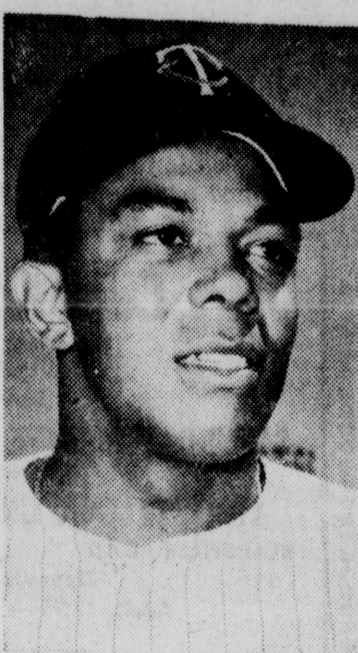

NEW YORK (UPI)—American League fact sheet, spring edition:

Only four hitters with lifetime marks of .300 or better are scattered through the 12 American League camps and two of them are refugees from the National League.

Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins is the leader at .308 for seven years. Al Kaline, who has spent all his 16 seasons with the Detroit Tigers, is second with .304.

Frank Robinson of Baltimore, previously an NL star at Cincinnati, is third with .302 and Tommy Davis of the Seattle Pilots, also out of the National, rounds out the group at .300 even.

With Mickey Mantle retired,

are tied for the lead in career grand slam homers among active players with seven each...Northrup hit four last year alone...Mantle had nine for a Yankee lifetime.

Dennis McLain, Detroit's 31-game winner, was 2-3 against Baltimore...Washington's Frank Howard, who led both leagues with 44 homers, was a dead duck against New York...he failed to hit any at Yankee Stadium, the only road park in which he missed, and Yankee pitchers shut him out in Washington, too.

The Senators have an 11-13 record on opening days with Democratic presidents tossing out the first ball...They're 11-9 with Republican presidents...President Johnson went 0-3, President Hoover 0-4.

New club insignia: Kansas City Royals adopted a royal, flanked by gold wings...A

put a large white "R" in the center and a smaller "KC" in the upper right corner...Seattle Pilots show a ship's wheel flanked by gold wings...A

baseball inside the wheel has "Pilots" stitched in blue between the red seams of the ball. Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox, who led the league in hitting with .301, clipped Baltimore pitchers for an astronomical .422...But he was .192 against the California Angels.

Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox is looking over every candidate remotely resembling a hitter...Sox were shut out 23 times last season and lost 44 games by one run, both showings the league's poorest.

Tigers were first in fielding, first in slugging, first in complete games by pitchers, third in over-all pitching, fourth in batting...Oakland, favored in this year's western division, led in batting with .240 but was seventh in both fielding and pitching.

Detroit again was home run heaven...of the 182 hit there, Tigers hit 107...Chicago was toughest...only 76 hit there all season with the White

Sox getting 29...things should be looking up at Comiskey Park, though, with a new fence cutting distances in all fields.

Camilo Pascual of Washington has the most shutouts (36) and most victories (170) of any active AL pitcher...Dean Chance of the Twins has 32 shutouts and Jim Kaat of the Twins has 128 victories for second in each category.

Frank Robinson of Baltimore has more career homers (418) than any active player in the league...Harmon Killebrew of the Twins needs just three to reach 400 homers.

In addition to the Yankee uniform numbers worn by Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio and now Mickey Mantle, two others have been retired permanently by their clubs...Boston Red Sox retired the No. 9 worn by Ted Williams, Cleveland the No. 19 worn by Bob Feller.

All but Mantle, who'll have to wait awhile, are Hall of Famers.

TOMMY DAVIS

wait awhile, are Hall of Famers.

Rebuilding Job at Saugerties

By MORT LAFFIN

SAUGERTIES High School baseball team faces a rebuilding year, according to Coach Pete Kramer. Although only four seniors have graduated from last year's team, they were, in the words of the coach, key players on a squad that compiled a 7-7 record in the Dutchess County Scholastic League Central Section, 8-9 and one tie overall.

Two of those graduating were Bill Perks and Jeff Leone. Both boys were All-DCSL selections and you know that their loss must hurt.

Coach Kramer pointed out that only 24 boys reported for practice, with five of these being freshmen and sophomores. The coach was disappointed by such a light turnout.

The classic line of all coaches is that hitting will be the main problem and Kramer is no exception. It is true that you don't win baseball games without hits and runs and this is the biggest obstacle facing the Sawyers.

Catching is another problem for the Saugerties nine. This position is probably the most demanding day in and day out and usually takes a man of special qualities to handle the job. Candidates for the job are juniors Steve Pasqua and Ray Teitter. Two other infielders that may see action behind the plate are Tom Greco and Bob Todaro.

Strong on Pitching

The Sawyers' strong point lies in its pitching staff. With the demise of the .300 hitter on all levels of baseball, pitching has come to the fore and with Bruce Wrolsen and Mike Turek returning Coach Kramer may find that the key to victory will lie in his team's pitching and a good defense.

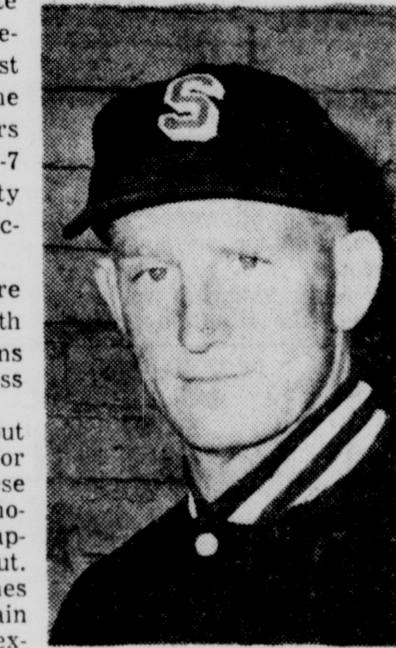

Wrolsen and Turek accounted for five of the eight wins and struck out a combined total of ninety men. Junior Jeff Markle, Sophomore Bill Ohno and Freshman Duane White are expected to add to the pitching department. Outfielder Gary Silnovich will give a hand, preferably with his strong arm, in relief.

Two Outfielders Return

Outfielders that are returning are Randy Fury and Silnovich.

Both boys saw a lot of action last season. Others trying to crack the starting line-up are Jack Henderson, Chuck Ollinger, George Terpening, Pete

Femtastic Takes Aqueduct Race

By United Press International

Femtastic was a fantastic Wednesday to the chilly crowd of some 21,000 at Aqueduct that put its money behind the horse. But they worried during most of the one-mile $15,000 Milkmaid Purse for fillies and mares.

Femtastic, five or six lengths off the pace going into the final bend, rallied to draw away for a four-length victory over Raisin d'Etre. She paid $7 for the victory in 1:37 3/5, her first triumph in six starts this season.

Farm's Tyrant, a Triple Crown nominee, won the six-furlong featured race at Pimlico by two and one-half lengths to make his 3-year-old debut. He returned $4 for his 1:13 clocking.

Too Bald tried for a fifth straight victory, but her burden of 131 pounds—the most ever put on a filly or mare in a Florida stake—was too much Wednesday at Gulfstream. Spire captured the $23,550 Suwanee River Handicap by more than a length over Crystal Palace, with Treacherous third. She returned $23.60. Too Bald, faltering badly, finished eighth.

Hooplah, the overwhelming favorite, led all the way in capturing Santa Anita's $10,600 Ventura County Fair Purse at 1-16 miles.

UCCC Places Second In Regional Scoring

SELDEN Ulster County Community College Senators, the 1968-69 champions, finished second in Region XV scoring with a 95.3 average for 27 games, final, official statistics revealed today.

Post Junior College of Connecticut led with a whopping 110.6 average, one of the highest in the nation. Rockland County was third with 90.4, followed by Manhattan 88.6 and Farmingdale, 88.0.

Ed Hill, who averaged 33.2 points with 830 markers in 25 games was the bellwether of the potent Post offense. Jay Herold of Husatic was runnerup with 30.1, followed by Al Jones of Fashion Institute Tech with 29.7.

Ulster's Jerry Moss ranked in eighth place with a 20.9 average on 563 points in 27 games for the repeater champions. Tom Royce of Dutchess Community was a slot ahead of Moss with a 21.3 average in 21 games.

Ken Lam of Staten Island proved one of the most versatile players in the region with top rebounding average of 20.7, a game to go with his fourth place rating in scoring with 27.2. Al Jones of Farmingdale, Henry Weaver of Mitchell and Ed Fields of Suffolk were fractions apart at 17 average.

UCCC's Gary Kirkwood was the region's fifth best rebounder with a 16.0 average, on 416

Cadets Face Tourneys, Sectionals on Weekend

Tournaments, sectionals and Temple with Army hoping one dual meet will occupy the weekend for eight of Army's 11 winter intercollegiate teams, in Seattle, Wash. Action here will find the gymnastics team in the Eastern League meet Thursday, Friday and Saturday; rifle in the NRA Sectionals and pistol closing out its season with a dual match against the Coast Guard Academy. All of the shooting will take place Saturday.

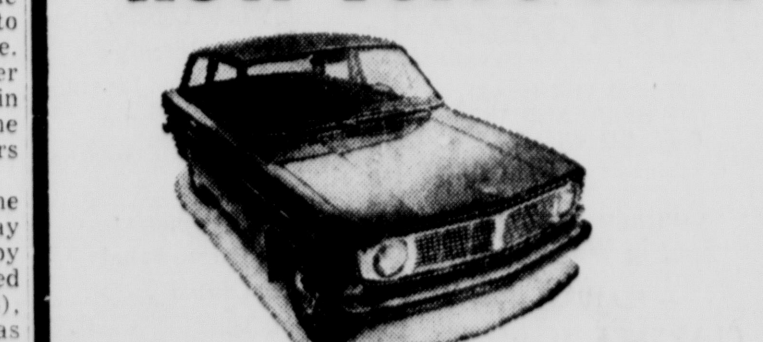

The road runner schedule follows: BASKETBALL in NIT vs Wyoming, Saturday at 7 p.m. FENCING at Easterns, New York University, Friday and Saturday.

SWIMMING at Easterns, Yale, Thursday through Saturday.

TRACK at Nationals (NCAA), Detroit, Friday and Saturday. WRESTLING at Easterns, Princeton, Friday and Saturday. Basketball is making its fifth trip in six years to the post-season classic in Madison Square Garden. The Cadets finished with a 16-8 mark in regular-season play. Seven of the eight teams that beat Army are in tournaments, Kentucky, Marquette, Princeton and St. John's are in the NCAA. Ohio University, Fordham and Rutgers are in the NIT.

Pencings finds Army in a "dark horse" role, the four teams that defeated the Cadets latter also a hurdler: high picked to battle for the Eastern title, NYU, Penn, Princeton and Navy form the quartet. Gymnastics appears to be a showdown between Penn State Army in the indoor NCAA meet.

Eminent Domain Study Sought by Rolison

KINGSTON The taking of private property for public use would be subject to a thorough study under a proposal made by Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. (R., Dutchess-Ulster). The proposal calls for the establishment of a joint legislative committee to review the entire concept and application of eminent domain.

Senator Rolison stated: "The principle of eminent domain is an ancient one and has been incorporated in our state constitution for almost two centuries. However, in recent years, with the advent of countless public projects, the exercise of the principle of eminent domain has resulted in a great acceleration of the taking of private property for public use. In some instances there is actually competition between governmental units for the same property."

"Similarly, in some areas the amounts of land taken for public purpose has so shrunken the base for taxes in local areas that the remaining property taxpayers are required to share an unreasonable tax burden. In some cities, towns and villages one-third to one-half of the total land area is used for tax exempt purposes."

"In addition, the people whose property may be taken face the inconsistency of different compensation depending on what purpose their property is taken for."

"Elderly people who have spent their lives paying for a home in which to spend their latter years only to have it taken by eminent domain find that the compensation they receive is insufficient to purchase a replacement home. application of the principle of taking private property with the purpose of making recommendations for a more equitable application of the principle for the benefit of the people as well as local and state governments."

Request Lloyd Board For Town Road Probe

HIGHLAND The Commander of the Highland American Legion Post Wednesday asked the Lloyd Town Board for cooperation in asking the state to do something about the exit of Tillson Avenue on Rt. 9W.

Vernon Ronk said there have been several serious accidents at that corner, one involving a school bus. "They've either got to put light there, or straighten the road, or maybe both."

Unfortunately, Justice Lewis DiStasi told him, "There's nothing we can do. As a board we can't act because our hands are tied. They just won't do it for us, we've already asked them."

"But perhaps if some pressure is brought to bear something might get done."

DiStasi, who along with Justice Linn Baker makes up the Town's highway committee, told Ronk that the Legion should appoint a committee to contact state legislators.

In other action, the board heard bids for materials for the water and highway department, but no action was taken. The board also received a bid for the proposed new voting machine, but the $1,778 figure quoted is $28 more than is allowed for the machine in the present budget.

"It seems to be a one package deal," said Supervisor Thomas Shay. "There are no options that we can cut off, but maybe they'll give us a trade-in allowance on our old machine or perhaps a $28 discount."

Shay said he would investigate the situation further.

College Orchestra to Give Spring Concert March 31

NEW PALTZ The 80-piece College Community Orchestra of State University College, New Paltz, will present its Spring Concert at 8:30 on the evening of March 31.

The concert, said Symphony Director Dr. Harry Hammer, is open to the public without charge.

Hammer said soloists would include Peter Alexander, in Weber's Concertino for Clarinet and Orchestra, and Mary Corry and Joyce Auchincloss supported by Martha Folts in Bach's Concerto for three Harpsichords.

He said the programs will also include Fanfare for the Common Man by Aaron Copland, Sibelius' Symphony No. 2 (only the finale), the St. Paul's Suite by Holst and some of Borodin's Polovetsian dances. Alexander holds the Bachelor

Actress Tells Confused Story On 'Kidnaping'

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Mona Crawford, who was missing for three days, called police from a Fifth Avenue phone booth Wednesday night and said she had been kidnaped. After three hours of questioning at headquarters, detectives described the case as confused.

"She told us one story about being kidnaped and then another about wanting to get away for a few days," said Detective Sgt. Frank Scollin after Miss Crawford had been sent home at her physician's request.

"She is very confused and gave us some very conflicting statements," Scollin told newsmen. "She claims to have been in many different locations." He said police would question her again "when her physician gives the O.K."

Miss Crawford, whose real name is Mona Sherman, disappeared Sunday night after she left her apartment to go and reclaim a French poodle that had been stolen from her car last Feb. 10.

The 41-year-old actress, who has appeared on stage and in television commercials, became the object of a widespread search when police issued a 50-state alarm for her Tuesday.

A black and white photograph of a vintage color television set. The screen displays the word "Color" in a simple, sans-serif font. The television has a dark, wood-grain or paneled cabinet. To the right of the screen is a vertical control panel with several knobs and switches. Below the screen are two small drawers or compartments. The overall aesthetic is that of a mid-20th-century household appliance.

Dear Abby

Keep Dog, Ditch Doc

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: You sure let me down. Why did you back up that allergy doctor when he advised the woman to get rid of the Chihuahua she had for eight years?

Know what I think? I think those allergy doctors all hate pets. I went to one once and he told me I was allergic to house dust and cat fur—and I didn't even own a cat! When those allergy doctors can't find anything else to blame, they always give you a dog or cat story. If I were that woman, I'd keep the Chihuahua and get rid of the doctor.

VERY truly yours,
HATES DOCTORS

DEAR HATES: Sorry, but dogs and cats frequently ARE the culprits in cases of allergies. There is a simple test, however, to determine the validity of the doctor's diagnosis. Get rid of the pet temporarily, and if the symptoms disappear, you'll know the pet was the cause.

DEAR ABBY: On St. Valentine's day, the gentleman I've been dating gave me a bottle of perfume in my favorite fragrance. He also took me to dinner and presented me with a beautiful orchid corsage. But then he spoiled it all by handing me a $25 GIFT CERTIFICATE! It was like a slap in the face.

I tried not to show my shock and disappointment, but I still haven't been able to bring myself to cash it. Should I drop him?

INSULTED

DEAR INSULTED: Sorry, but I can't see any reason for being shocked, disappointed, or insulted. But if you should decide to drop this gentleman, let me know where you drop him. I know about 30 women who would love to meet him.

DEAR ABBY: I am a lonely widower of only two months. I decided to visit friends when I have known a long time, feeling that I would be welcome.

Abby, I took my own bottle not wanting to put them to any expense to entertain me.

Well, after two drinks my hostess took my glass, washed it and put it back in the cupboard.

Now, what would you have done? There was still plenty to drink and the evening had hardly started, but I decided to excuse myself and go home. Do you think that was the right thing to do?

WONDERING IN MAN CHESTER

DEAR WONDERING: Since I don't know your hostess, and don't know how you behave after two drinks, I can't say whether your hostess actions meant, "You've had enough to drink," or "We've had enough of you." But if you excused yourself when the evening had hardly started, and weren't coaxed to stay longer, you were wise to go home.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LOUISE: A girl who is old enough to accept an engagement ring is old enough to return it herself. And don't for goodness sake, make up any "excuses." Your reasons for not wanting to marry a man who uses eye shadow and mascara are good enough.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

BILL BARRED: (Q.) Mother says I can't go with Bill any more. She heard a lot of rumors about him. One was that he has a police record. Another was that he got a girl pregnant. That isn't so. It was another boy.

Bill is 18 and out of school. I'm 15. Mother doesn't like the differences in our ages, either. She didn't mind until she heard the rumors.

Bill is really trying to straighten out so he can go with me. He went to the police and they are helping him.

I'm serious about him! What can I do?—O. in Birmingham, Ala.

(A.) A girl 15 should think before she goes with a boy of 18, especially when he is not in school and she is. She should be sure he is headed in the right direction and that he is honest and decent and respects her.

If you are deep-down sure that Bill meets these tests, suggest to your mother that she invite him out for a visit with her and your father and you, maybe for lunch on Saturday or Sunday. Let her see what kind of boy he is.

But even if she does invite him, and even if your parents do say you can start dating him again, do not make any commitments to him right away. Before you do, be very sure not only that he keeps on meeting the tests mentioned above, but also that he's what you really want.

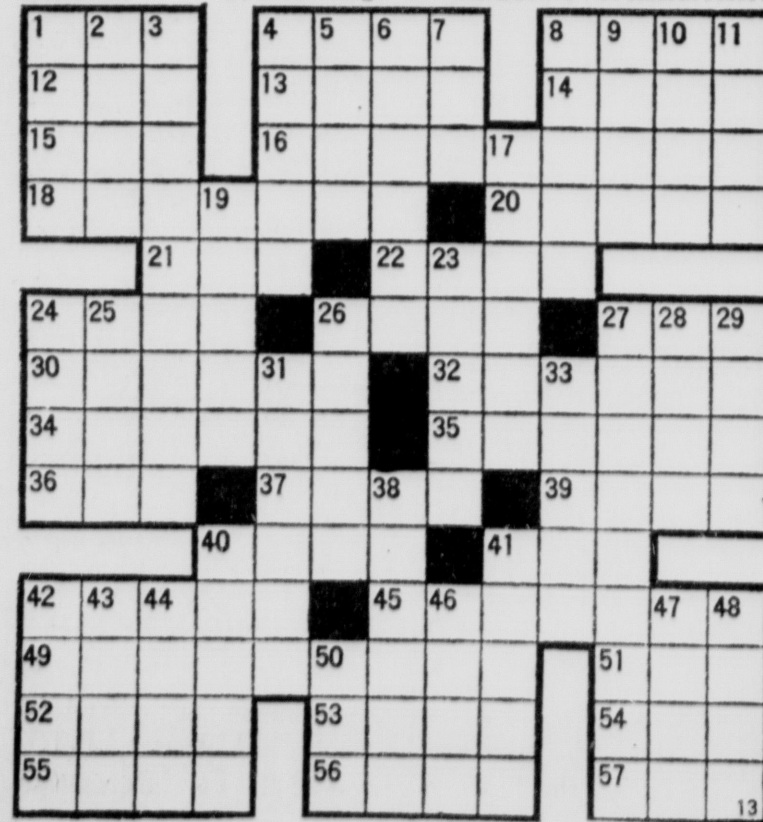

WILD CURL: (Q.) I'm not going to give up my long hair, so don't tell me to. Plenty of people have already told me a boy shouldn't wear his hair long. I can stand their comments, but the curl on the side of my head is what really bugs me.

Hair cream or straightener won't take it out. Do you know anything that will?—C. in Dallas.

(A.) A good hair stylist can help you, but I must warn you he will be expensive. He can deal with the curl and other trouble spots, and shape your hair to fit your face and personality.

Horoscope By SIDNEY OMARR It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1969

ARIES (March 21—April 19): Accent on hopes, dreams and wishes. You may not get all you want—but some desires are fulfilled. Key is to know when to stop. Don't chase rainbow. Respect facts.

TAURUS (April 20—May 20): Stress occupation. Fulfill obligations. Act in authoritative manner. You have more to offer than might be imagined. Realize this: be confident. Ask for that raise.

GEMINI (May 21—June 20): Day to finish rather than begin projects. Enlarge horizons. Realize that petty actions can be expensive. Spread influence. Set example. Stand tall. Adhere to principles.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Check financial papers. Tax information should be verified. Take nothing for granted. Initiate action which could lead to new enterprise. Don't delegate duties. Be there in person.

LEO (July 23—Aug. 22): Gain co-operation of close associates. Further program of public relations. Make known your views. But do so in unobtrusive manner. Means hold back on some of your flair, showman ship.

VIRGO (Aug. 23—Sept. 22): You may get request for special service. Be obliging. But don't get involved in another's business. Cultivate good will. Co-operate with associates, co-workers. Watch diet.

LIBRA (Sept. 23—Oct. 22): Young persons are attracted to you. Give advice without appearing pompous. Day for pleasure. Pursue creative endeavors. Personal magnetism rating soars. Romantic evening indicated.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Accomplish essential tasks at home, office. Utilize constructive suggestions. Don't permit pride to block progress. Greater security indicated if you pace, time your moves.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22—Dec. 21): Sense of humor is best ally against tension. Short trip involving message, relative may be on agenda. Leave details for another time. Today perceive as a whole.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22—Jan. 19): Check belongings. Repair what is to be salvaged. Be shrewd where money possessions are concerned. Be positive about facts, guarantees. Strike hard bargain.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20—Feb. 18): Set pace. Lead rather than follow. Be original, independent. Display skills, initiative. Cycle is high. You get the breaks. Important persons pay heed to your efforts.

PISCES (Feb. 19—March 20): Stay out of spotlight. Be discreet. Important to finish what you start. Don't be distracted by foolish friend. You are given assignment by group, club, organization. Be sincere.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: you have inquiring mind—would make good writer, reporter, teacher. Domestic problems now claim your attention. You may be ready for an important move.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Shakeup could affect large organization, including United Nations.

WHY WE SAY

WHEN IN ROME DO AS THE ROMANS DO

CUSTOM: This famous quotation was first made to St. Augustine who had moved from Milan to Rome. He wrote St. Ambrose in Milan that the Romans were fasting on Saturday and Sunday and, since it was not the custom in Milan, he was perplexed. In reply, St. Ambrose wrote, "When in Rome, do as the Romans do."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Courtesy has long characterized Japanese life, but the two million daily commuters using Tokyo's main rail station have made the city's rush hour travel sadly similar to that in New York City. Shinjuku station employs 60 "pushers" to shove riders into overcrowded cars at rush hour. The World Almanac notes.

Latest Smother(ing) Flap

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The latest flap between the Smothers Brothers and CBS-TV comes as absolutely no surprise to the television industry.

The alliance of the network and the comedy team has been, for some time, strictly a marriage of convenience.

To say that CBS-TV and the Smothers Brothers can live without each other is putting it mildly.

Person Antagonism

It was common gossip for a while that CBS-TV, despite the success of the brothers, was considering dropping their series next season because of the mutual headaches over censorship, taste and related matters.

One of these matters was simply the personal antagonism that had built up.

Since Tom Smothers is generally the spokesman of the team, and the most involved in production, he is the brother who most often has wound up butting heads with the network.

If the network has truly thought at all about dropping the Smothers, it is reported that Tom has literally given some consideration to dropping CBS-TV.

The suggestion that the brothers might try to move to another network is not new. The network really doesn't like Tom and Dick because they know they mean what they say in their humor. The old-line executives are used to dealing with comedians who pretended to be irreverent, but really weren't. They were all members of the club, like Bob Hope, who want to be known as Hope.

BARBS

More people are engaged in making mistakes than in any other occupation.

If we import a few more bridges, ocean liners and such, there should be a boost in travelers from the British Isles eager to see a bit of Old England—in the states.

CIRCUS TIME — Despite the sub-freezing temperature which delayed the unloading of most of the animals arriving Wednesday in Washington on the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus train, scantily-clad performers Kay Pittenger of Sarasota, Fla., left, and Hanna Weaver of Copenhagen, Denmark rode two of the elephants for the benefit of the crowd on hand for the arrival. The circus opened an 18-day engagement today. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

$2 Million Fund In Red Hook Vote

By LYNN MULVANEY

RED HOOK Tuesday, April 1 has been set for a public meeting on the proposed $2 million additions to the Mill Road and Red Hook High schools. School District voters will go to the polls April 15 to vote on the measure and may register for the referendum on March 29 and April 2 from 2 to 9 p.m. at the high school.

The hearing will take place at 8 p.m. in the high school. All voters who did not attend the school district annual meeting in June must register in order to vote, according to District Principal Russell Keefe.

Red Hook Board of Education, meeting earlier this week, awarded contracts for two pusher-type buses to the lowest bidder, Albany Avenue Garage, Kingston. The 61-passenger vehicles will cost $12,860 each, contingent on budget approval. Keefe pointed out that the state contract price for the same buses would be more than $13,000 each. The highest bid brought in locally was $13,973.

The board, on recommendation of college students from Red Hook, replaced the school's math 12X course and replaced it with calculus which students claim would be more valuable to them in their college curriculums.

Graphic Rejection

The board also turned down an expenditure of $3,200 as its share of a $6,400 graphic arts equipment program under the Title III project.

Two school activities were established with permission granted for the creation of both a ski club and a coin and stamp club. Mrs. Lynn Miller, elementary teacher, will be advisor to the ski club and Edmond Roberts, high school English teacher, will be advising the coin and stamp club. The board did not agree to any commitments in the area of transportation or supervision costs.

It was also agreed to include in the Continuing Education Program, the state mandated three-hour driver safety course for those seeking new driving licenses. The course will be given to adults and students alike and will consist of two one and one-half hour sessions. Joseph Barnes, director of continuing education, will be in charge of setting up the program which will be conducted for a fee but on a non-profit basis.

A garbage contract was awarded Donald V. R. Coon in the amount of $1,845 and approval was given the installation of a two-way intercom system for a fourth grade student residing in Tivoli, who cannot attend school.

The resignation of Miss Pat Williams, elementary school music teacher was accepted. Miss Williams, who will soon be married, is moving to Connecticut.

Three three-year probationary appointments were made as follows: Mrs. Janet Brandis, elementary teacher; Alan Mallanda, physical education and Mrs. Carla Lasher, art teacher.

The school board members will appear as panelists at the March 20 PTA meeting in the high school and will discuss the school tax structure in the community as well as give a preliminary orientation on the school building program.

Fatal Crash

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 48-year-old man was killed Wednesday night when his automobile crashed into the pillar of a railroad viaduct, police said. They identified the victim as Charles Smith, of Buffalo. He lived at 570 Parkside Ave.

Sipperley Outlines Rhinebeck Ideas

RHINEBECK Rhinebeck's unopposed candidate for mayor of the village, Peter F. Sipperley, today outlined his ideas concerning present and future items of business, such as police department organization under the Taylor Law, water tasting and odor problems and sewage and fire-house needs.

Sipperley, who will replace the incumbent Mayor Robert Shackleton, who did not seek reelection, also spoke of the upcoming bond issue for the village hall firehouse complex saying, "The public has received every bit of information on this... and there has certainly been no intent to ramrod this item down the taxpayer's throats."

100 PCT Backing
"All facts and figures presented are as accurate as possible at this time and the village board and fire department will stand behind them 100 per cent." Sipperley added that the insurance rate changes which he quoted at a public hearing are correct.

Concerning the water treatment plant and the water system, Sipperley said he believes the main problem "is with the taste of the water. Some areas of the village are getting a bad taste and odor in the water while other areas are getting good water. A complete and thorough flushing of the water mains will be the first step to correct this situation. If it persists in some areas water samples will be taken and analyzed in an effort to correct the problem."

Sipperley said that the village board will be working with the Taylor Law for the first time very soon "as the police department desires to organize under this law. As I have stated previously, I am not opposed to this."

"As far as sewage is concerned for the village, I believe that some people have been misled by the recent proposed plans for a private sewer district. This does not involve taxpayer funds and is financed by private individuals and businesses who desire to be served by the district."

"The village is in no position to finance a $4 or $5 million sewer system now or in the future."

"Continued support for the summer and winter youth recreation programs is a must, along with continued support for the Landsman Kill Stocking Club Fishing Contest. Further cleanup of the Mandsman Kill Creek is planned this year for that portion of the creek that adjoins the village-owned corner lot at South Parsonage Street and North Park Road. The lot itself will also undergo some cleanup 'surgery' which should beautify that area and open up more of the creek for better fishing for adults as well as children."

Running on the ticket with Sipperley are Francis Kinney and John Marks for the posts of trustee and the incumbent William Pollard who seeks reelection to the post of police justice. Sipperley concluded his remarks by thanking Mayor Shackleton and the present board members for endorsing him.

Voting will take place Tuesday, March 18 from noon to 9 p.m. in Town Hall.
